

MODERNIZATION OF CHINA SHOWS RAPID ADVANCE

Radical Change Made in Writing System. Oriental Editor Tells Optimists.

The radical changes that have taken place throughout China and its ancient institutions within the past few years, under the influence of Western civilization and Chinese "progressives" formed the subject of an after-luncheon address made at the Hotel Oakland yesterday by Ng Poon Chew, editor of the San Francisco "Chung Sai Yat Po."

The well-known Chinese journalist, who is also an official of the China Mail Steamship company, and whose home is at 3765 Shafter avenue, Oakland, was the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Optimists Club.

Industrially, commercially, politically, educationally, and in every other important phase of national life, Chew declared, China is today awakening from the slumber in which she has overslept through the ages.

WRITING MODERNIZED.

One of the most important and interesting of these changes, Chew said, is the modernization of the Chinese system of writing, which now makes it possible not only for foreigners to learn the Chinese language, but for Chinese themselves to learn it without having to go to school for twenty years.

"Formerly the Chinese had no alphabet, but had, instead, a system of 40,000 characters. Each of these characters consisted of 64 separate strokes of the pen. It was necessary to study for twenty years before one could consider himself a well-educated man in China."

Chew also threw off its age-old incubus of opium. Chew said, by means of laws which prohibit the manufacture or use of the narcotic within the republic. It is upon the Dutch that the Chinese place the blame for the original introduction of opium into China, Chew said, and it was England, he charged, that prevented his countrymen from eradicating it long ago.

The opium used in China came largely from India, Chew declared, "and from its sale the British government in India derived a large revenue. In the reign of Queen Victoria the British government interfered when China tried to abolish the use of opium and force China to repeal all the laws it had enacted toward that end. It was not until 1907 that China was allowed to proceed with the abolition of this curse of its people, and even then was required to do it gradually over a period of ten years instead of at once."

U. S. AUTOS IN CHINA.

Chew said that where, in the city of Canton, with its million population, there was not a single four-wheeled vehicle four years ago, there are today 172 automobiles of American manufacture.

China has more students studying abroad, he said, than any other country in the world, the total being about 25,000.

A course in English is now a prerequisite for graduation from any Chinese university, just as Greek and Latin used to be in those of England and the United States. In the Chinese high schools, where the students are allowed a choice as to which modern language they will study, 80 per cent of them decide for English, the speaker said.

Peace, War Are Toss-up Says Appeal to U. S.

By EDWARD J. KING,
United Press Staff
Correspondent

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7.—Appeal to American public opinion to believe in Mustafa Kemal in an hour when "the chances of war or peace are fifty-fifty," was made in an exclusive statement to the United Press by a French negotiator, who was hurrying to Mudania for resumption of the armistice conference.

The allies went to the meeting place today to answer Kemal's ultimatum that he must have Thrace at once. They had instructions from their governments to refuse this demand, but to avert a clash.

The French delegate, declaring it was "a toss-up whether it is peace or war," vigorously upheld the Ottoman demand for Thrace, although not approving immediate occupation. A million Thraces, he said, have need of Turkey for homes.

Guns, K. K. K. Guard Pulpit Evangelist

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MALESTER, Okla., Oct. 7.—The Rev. L. E. Smith, an evangelist who had been conducting services at Damon, in Latimer county, appeared in the pulpit Thursday and Friday with side arms, following threats that he would not be permitted to hold meetings. Laying a loaded gun beside his Bible, Smith announced Thursday that he was not going to be bothered, according to word received here today.

The following evening, having received new threats, Rev. Smith brought two guns along. After services were under way two automobiles loaded with men attired in the regalia of the Klu Klux Klan arrived and the minister has since had no trouble.

Professor Millikan was selected by the league council to replace Professor George Ellery Hale, director of the Mount Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Calif., who resigned from the committee.

Shot Dead in Saloon and Dumped in Alley

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(By International News Service.)—Another murder mystery was added to the list of those which fill the pages of Chicago's criminal record today when the body of George W. Heller, 38, was found in an alley with the rain beating down upon it.

He had been shot five times through the chest and abdomen. Police said the murder had been committed in the rear room of a saloon and the body dumped in the alley by the slayers. It had been dead about three hours when found.

Marital Mixing Stirs Judge to Guard Children

With their father and mother both remarried, and their step-father and step-mother arrayed against each other in a bitter factional fight, Superior Judge James G. Quinn yesterday declared that unless the parents and step-parents agree upon a disinterested party to have the care and custody of the children, he will declare Grace and Josephine Gonsalves wards of the court and determine their custody irrespective of any of the parties concerned.

Mrs. Mamie Meyers, former Mrs. Gonsalves, and her former husband, Manuel Gonsalves, were both in court, and both sought the custody of the children. Each was backed by an army of friends and relatives who were called to stand to give testimony against one parent or the other. It developed that both parents have recently married, subsequent to their divorce.

Judge Quinn continued the matter for a week with the admonition that the parents should select a neutral person to have the custody of the children.

LIBERTY MOTOR OF T-2 AWARDED HIGHEST PRAISE

Overhauling Will Be Given It to Prepare For Flight to Atlantic in November.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., Oct. 7.—While Lieutenant John A. Macready and Oakley Kelly early today were reported to be catching up on some of the sleep which they lost while flying over the city since 5.56 a. m. yesterday in the great monoplane T-2 to smash all records for sustained flight, preparations were being made at Rockwell Field where they landed with the great service transport T-2, to obtain some more measurements connected with that feat. The aviators had been in the air 35 hours, 18 minutes, 30 seconds.

The two flyers estimated on their landing late yesterday at the end of their memorable flight that they had consumed nearly all of the 690 gallons of gasoline which filled the huge tanks of the monoplane and enabled them to keep on circling in the long hours with its 81-foot wing spread. Accurate measurements of the gasoline left and the lubricating oil remaining in the motor and reserve tank will be taken.

Officers and men at Rockwell field all echoed the praise which Macready and Kelly gave to the powerful Liberty motor which carried them on the record breaking flight. The opinion was freely expressed that this aeronautical motor stands supreme in its field. Careful examination of the engine and all other parts of the great machine will be made as soon as possible and the motor, if it is found to be in as good shape as expected, will be carefully gone over to prepare the T-2 for the non-stop flight which the two airmen expect to make to New York from this city early in November.

Much interest was shown at Rockwell field in comparison of some aviator records made in the last ten years. Macready himself broke the altitude record with a

Two Hangmen Execute Slayer Twice Reprieved

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Oct. 7.—Twice reprieved from hanging, the second time because no hangman could be found, Benny Swin, who was convicted of killing two persons, was twice hanged yesterday when a second hangman was called after the first attempt had been bungled.

Swin was sentenced to be hanged July 15 for the murder of his cousin, Mrs. Olive Swin Trenholme, and her husband, Harvey Trenholme, a returned soldier of Belle Verte. He then pleaded insanity and won a reprieve until Sept. 15.

On that date a hangman could not be found and the execution was put off.

Today a hangman, fictitiously named "M. A. Doyle," sprung the trap. When the body had been cut down, it was discovered that life was not extinct. The noose, it was believed, had not been properly adjusted.

Officials forced to carry out the order of execution, again took the body to the scaffold and a second hangman, "own only as 'Gill, from Montreal'" sprung the trap, an hour after the first attempt.

passenger by going 34,150 feet at Dayton, Ohio, November 6, 1921, and set a new world's record of 40,800 feet at McCook Field, Dayton, September 28, 1921.

A world record for sustained flight was made July 5, 1912, by Lagardeux of France, who flew with a passenger 15 minutes for a distance of 31 kilometers. Twelve years later, Landmann, the German flier, went for 21 hours 48 minutes and 45 seconds. That record was broken by the American flier with ease yesterday and they also went far past the reported mark of about 27 hours credited unofficially to Eddie Stinson, flying with Lloyd Bertaud.

Macready and Kelly both said on landing yesterday, that the perfect climatic conditions encountered here had been of great aid to them.

LABOR DELEGATES WEIGH PROPOSALS ON STATE BALLOT

Impeachment of Attorney-General For Strike Injunction Urged at Convention.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 7.—A theater party last night closed a busy day for delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the California State Federation of Labor. The business sessions of the day were given over to consideration of resolutions, including one recommending the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty for his action toward obtaining an injunction at Chicago against the striking railroad strikers. It was adopted without a dissenting vote. The matter of a subsidy for strikers also was discussed. Resolutions favoring a number of propositions to come before the people at the November 7 election also were adopted. These propositions were No. 36, providing for the registration of stationary engineers; No. 37, providing for licensing all master plumbers; No. 61, providing for a state building code; No. 33, endorsing the chiropractic bill; No. 37, for a minimum wage of $1200 a year for teachers; No. 38, for a minimum pension of $700 a year for teachers, and No. 31, providing that all cities of 10,000 or more population, provide restroom accommodations.

Proposition No. 24, regulating the practice of law, which the resolutions committee recommended to be voted down, died of approval after a lively discussion. Henry Heidelberg of San Francisco fought for No. 24, declaring it was designed to protect attorneys against unscrupulous persons, and that it would prevent banks and trust companies from drawing wills, a practice which, he said, was responsible for much sorrow and regret to widows and orphans, who find their money tied up by these companies for many years. Paul Scharrenberg of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer of the federation, defended the report of the committee opposing the measure, declaring it was designed to give more power to attorneys and that the matter was "merely a fight between lawyers and trust companies."

LESSON NO. 179.

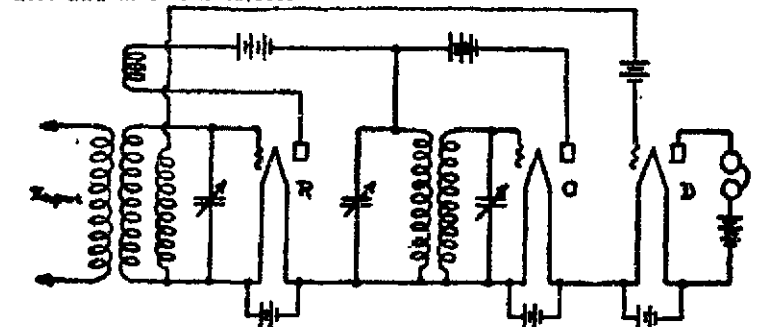

The Armstrong Super-Regenerative Circuit. Plate Voltage Variation. (All rights reserved by United Feature Syndicate. Reproduction prohibited.)

There are several methods by which super-regeneration may be accomplished through utilization of the circuits originated by E. H. Armstrong. One method employed two tubes, the first tube performing the functions of a regenerator and detector, while the second tube acts as an oscillator, and in this method exceptional amplification of signal is obtained by giving the super-regenerative circuit positive and negative resistance.

A second method uses three tubes, the first tube acting as a regenerator, the second tube as an oscillator and the third tube as a detector, this method obtaining super-regeneration through variation of the plate voltage.

A third method, by the proper connection of two tubes, obtains great magnification of the incoming signal by simultaneous variation in both positive and negative resistance, the first tube acting as a regenerator and oscillator and the second tube as a detector.

A fourth method also utilizes two tubes, the first tube acting as a regenerator while the second tube performs the functions of an oscillator and also of a detector.

In the accompanying diagram, super-regeneration is brought about through the method of varying the plate voltage with resultant variation in the amount of regeneration. The incoming signals are impressed upon the grid circuit of the regenerative tube (R) and after being amplified by the tube are further magnified through the magnetic coupling of the tickler coil by which a portion of the energy of the plate circuit is "fed back" to the grid circuit, thus producing a cumulative regenerative action. The tickler coil coupling is so arranged as to increase regeneration beyond the normal oscillating point of the tube. Tube (O) in connection with properly adjusted oscillatory circuits, produces oscillations which may have a frequency of 10,000 cycles per second, corresponding to a wave length of 30,000 meters.

It is apparent from the diagram that the plate voltage of the tube (R) varies at a rate of 10,000 cycles per second due to the fact that the plate oscillatory circuit is common to the plate circuit of the regenerative tube. During the half-cycle when the 10,000 cycle oscillations make the plate more positive, exceptional amplification of signal is obtained due to the fact that regeneration is increased beyond the normal oscillating point of the tube. Under normal conditions of regeneration, oscillations would be produced in the tube but before the oscillations can start the succeeding half-cycle of the impressed frequency causes a considerable reduction in the plate voltage. This decrease in plate voltage causes regeneration to be reduced and a consequent introduction of positive resistance in the grid circuit, thus preventing the formation of oscillations.

Tube (D) is utilized as a detector and the amplified voltage variations are impressed upon the circuit of the tube by means of a coil coupled to the grid circuit of the regenerative tube (R). It will be noted that a biasing battery of low voltage is so connected as to give a negative potential to the grid and thus obtain efficient rectification by operating on a proper point of the characteristic curve. A grid condenser and grid leak may be used however in place of the biasing battery.

It is thus apparent that super-regeneration may be effectually accomplished by variation of the plate voltage and that during the interval when the impressed frequency of the oscillator tube increases the positive value of the plate amplification of the incoming signal is obtained to a degree heretofore unapproached.

WOLF ARRESTED AS A MEMBER OF EXTORTION RING

More Arrests Expected to Follow Investigation of Winery Situation in Sonoma.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Reuben A. Wolf, federal prohibition officer, suspected of being a member of a ring that is accused of having extorted $100,000 from Sonoma county winery men, is under arrest here today on the specific charge of an alleged $4000 extortion.

Two of the winery men who say they were victims of the "ring" are alleged to have identified Wolf as the man who obtained $4000 from them on the threat of arresting them on charges of violating the prohibition law. Their names are being withheld by prohibition headquarters.

Wolf has been under suspicion for some time, Samuel F. Rutter, prohibition director, said today. Investigation of reports turned in by prohibition agent has shown them to be false in many particulars, Rutter charged.

Wolf's arrest followed the filing of a complaint by federal officials with United States Court Commissioner Thomas E. Hayden. Identification of Wolf followed, it is alleged, at the office of Alf C. Otfedahl, special agent of the bureau of intelligence of the internal revenue department.

Prohibition authorities announced today that they have evidence that Wolf and other prohibition agents employed a "go-between" to negotiate illegal sales of wine with the Sonoma county dealers and that the accused "dry agents" then demanded money rebates on the threat of making arrests.

Investigation into the charges of the winery men that a "ring" composed of prohibition agents has extorted $100,000 from them by means of threats is under way today, and more arrests are expected to follow, it is announced.

According to Rutter, discrepancies have been discovered in the reports turned in to his office by several of the agents working under him. In several cases, he said, they have reported their presence in this city at times when his office has positive evidence that they were in other places.

On the Second and Last Unit of

BERKELEY COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

This is positively the last close-in acreage owned by the Realty Syndicate where temporary homes are permitted. After this is gone there will be no more close-in acreage north of Oakland.

This property has an unsurpassed marine view; from most any quarter-acre you can see nine counties that border San Francisco Bay, and in the evening you can see the lights twinkling in as many cities, while the revolving lights on the island sweep the bay, making a most inspiring picture.

The sale Sunday will be on the lot-entire plan. Every lot will be staked with a price card and map, showing the exact size.

Bring Your Lunch---Look Them Over at Your Leisure

human frailties, but one no more to be desired. When someone's selfishness, or anger, or pride, brings a disturbing thought to us, we may be sure that it has found an answering chord in us, and that we need healing as well as our neighbor.

Then, too, we are apt to go about, following the efforts of others with suspicion and mistrust, imputing to them motives of selfishness and ambition, yet these thoughts which we entertain are the manifestations of jealousy and fear. These two evils, jealousy and fear, are expressions of the belief that what someone else has done or does, will take away from me something that I need for my own life. This is a lie about the spiritual fact that God gives all good to each of His children. We should recognize the unreality of these wrong thoughts and destroy them. The way to heaven is the way that leads away from heaven are trying just as hard as we are to discard their errors. Why make their journey and ours harder by insisting that they are right and we are wrong? Letting our own errors to so fill our thought as to blind our neighbors' reflection of divine Love from reaching us? When unkind thoughts enter our minds, let us destroy them, and in so doing we shall make their burdens less and our own lives more harmonious. If we could be rid of all wrong and unkind thinking, there at a joyous world this would be.

THE VALUE OF LOVE.

ing brass, or a clanging cymbal. And if I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have not faith, so as to remove mountains, I have not love, I am nothing. And if I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, but I have not love, I am nothing. If I give my body to be burned, but I have not love, I profit me nothing. Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself in pride, is not jealous, is not provoked, taketh not account of evil, rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things; believeth all things; hopeth all things; endureth all things. Love never faileth. "But now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."

Let us labor to appropriate the fullness of our divine inheritance love toward others each day by our progressing in this line. On Page 247 of "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany." Mrs. E. J. Phelps, in speaking of what we all recognize as the greatest accomplishment, "The little that I have accomplished, has all been done through love—self-forgetful, patient, unflinching tenderness. We have recognized that there is no real accomplishment unless it be a manifestation of the Love which is God, which is always self-forgetful, patient, and unflinching tenderness. We are weary of our weaknesses destroying our strength and letting us into the kingdom of heaven."

Throughout the New Testament the fact is taught that "he that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is Love." To our rightful consciousness is the consciousness of love, and all our suspicions, and criticisms, and ingratitude are but the lies of material sense, which should no longer deceive us. It is divine Love that destroys the hatefulness of our material thoughts that bring us into our lives, that saves us from sickness, and that saves us from sin. Love is our rightful inheritance, for the Son of God in your consciousness and in mine is the child of divine Love. Paul says (I quote from the Revised Version) "I thank you, O Lord, with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not Love. I am become sound-

Young "Pogo Girl" Grows Weary of Her Marital Ties

GENEVA MITCHELL SAVAGE (left), and another member of her pony ballet. She has returned to the chorus, having sued the young student with whom she eloped for annulment of marriage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Geneva Mitchell Savage, formerly Geneva Mitchell, a "Pogo girl" in the Folies, brought suit in the supreme court for annulment of her marriage

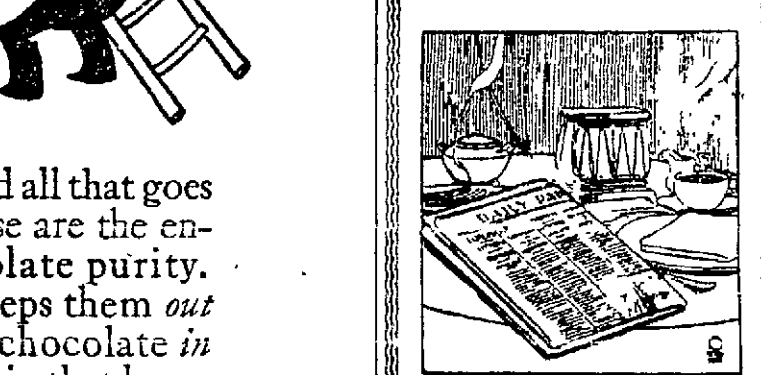

March 3, to Robert Savage of La Jolla, Cal., who was then preparing to enter Yale university. Mrs. Savage, who is 17, asks the annulment on the grounds that the ceremony was performed upon misrepresentation and that she was not old enough to marry, as she claims to have done, without her mother's

The "Pogo girl" accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Vera Ethel Mitchell, as guardian ad litem, appeared before Justice Tierney to press her suit for annulment of her impulsive marriage to 20-year-old Robert Savage of La Jolla, Cal., son of the late John A. Savage, steel millionaire, following an elopement last March 5—a marriage that lasted two days.

An attorney for the dancer presented a letter written to the girl by Savage in school that he had procured a license and had sworn "lies to all answers requiring lies, and it doesn't matter in the long run, because once the local minister seals our hands Sunday, no one can ever separate us without our consent."

Shooter Practices on Gallery Phonograph

SAN JOSE, Oct. 7. Because he took the phonograph to a local shooting gallery too much at his spoken word, R. L. Clark, local laborer, today is to face Police Judge Thomas R. Dougherty on a charge of drunkenness. Clark queried the proprietor as to what he should shoot at. "Anything behind the counter but myself," responded the proprietor, whereupon Clark is said to have opened fire at a phonograph playing to one side of the gallery. The instrument was riddled by several bullets before Clark could be stopped and a few moments later placed in custody by officers. "I'm glad I qualified my statement as to myself," declared the proprietor of the gallery, "or I might have been the target."

BIG INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION SHOW TO OPEN TONIGHT

Pageant and Parade Precede Second Annual Display at Civic Auditorium.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The opening of the second annual California Industries Exposition in the Civic Auditorium was proclaimed this morning in the industrial pageant parade, featuring floats and civic organizations, which started from the Ferry building at 10 o'clock, disbanded at Polk and McAllister streets.

Twenty industrial floats entered by manufacturers and civic organizations, four thousand employees in uniform, mounted police, navy and marine corps, a special division of city officials headed by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and members of the press, were in the line of march. The parade went up Market street to Grove, thence to Polk and then to McAllister street.

The parade was in four divisions. The Prince of Wales, impersonated by Creighton Hale motion picture star, was a feature. Industrial women, members of Soroptimist Club, five hundred enthusiastic workers from the Chamber of Commerce Boy Scouts and Disabled Veterans were in the line-up.

The exposition will open at 7 o'clock this evening when Mayor Rolph will press the button that will set hundreds of industrial wheels in motion. Angelo J. Rossi, president of the exposition, will make the opening address. A hand concert by Cassara's band, organ recital by Uda Waldrop, popular songs by a trio and the sensational "leap of death" by Eddie Heame, veteran automobile champion, will be some of the entertaining features. Hearn will travel at the rate of 112 miles an hour within a 17-foot steel cage and later race with Champion Harry Campbell. There will be dancing in the subway. Four hundred booths with machinery in motion and actually producing goods will demonstrate the industrial interests of the state.

TO SPEAK AT VESPERS.

Rev. Arthur E. Patterson, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, will have charge of the Vesper services at Mills College tomorrow evening. The subject of Rev. Patterson will be "Have You a Martha-Mary Personality?" The services will be held in Lasser Hall.

Oaklander Hit By Own Auto in Run for Thieves

William F. Woods, an insurance man of 128 Olive street, was run down yesterday by his own automobile when he jumped in front of it in attempting to stop two men who were driving away with the car. When the two automobile thieves saw that they had run over Woods, they jumped out of the machine while it was still in motion and did not stop the engine. The machine came to a stop after traveling half a block and hitting a telephone pole at Howe and John streets. Woods was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to Fabiola hospital. He is still in the hospital suffering from possible internal injuries. The thieves made good their escape.

John Bussa was slightly injured when he drove his automobile into a safety station at the corner of Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street. Bussa was returning from a duck-hunting trip and fell asleep at the wheel. Frank Mazzotta, 960 Forty-third street, who was in the machine with him, escaped uninjured. Bussa lives at 979 Forty-third street.

Capwells Thirty-Third Anniversary Sales Drama Prologue

Behold, now on our stage doth appear The end of the dream of many a year! But first in the magic crystal gaze, And try to see through its mystic haze What in years now long gone past, Has made our ideal true at last.

What, ho! just thirty-three years ago In a tiny room tucked in an inn, The little store began to grow, Radiating welcome from within. The scene then changes and we see A larger store filled up brimful With cheer and hospitality, And readiness to be helpful. And ever more the people flock To buy at the store that's like rock. A fine new building then appears, Majestic, laden with treasures rare, And still the spirit of former years Prevails, with principles right and fair In all things. Now the crystal's done— In the realm of today the victory's won.

As a builder, his vision toward the skies Thinking always of the palace fair That will slowly from his dreams arise, Lays block on marble block, and there Lays down a strong, secure support On which to build the upper frame— A building of the sterner sort That will attain through ages, fame; Just so, our founders looking ahead, Toward a Palace of Service as their ideal, Have ever through their dreams been led To make their own foundation real, Of Satisfaction and Courtesy, Cemented with Fairness and Honesty. Each year in gratitude to hearts Who help to make their vision true, The stage is set, the curtain parts, With rich reward to all who view.

My friends, you've heard my say. Let's bid farewell to sorrow And be ready for the play— The curtain lifts tomorrow.

BANKERS BEGIN PRELIMINARIES OF CONVENTION

Municipalities Securities Committee Considers Program.

By H. S. SCOTT
TRIBUNE BUREAU, INVESTMENT BANKERS OF AMERICA CONVENTION, HOTEL DEL MONTE, MONTEREY, Oct. 7.—The special trains, carrying 500 delegates to the annual convention of the Investment Bankers which opens Monday morning, arrived here at nine o'clock after five days of touring the state. The delegates and their wives lost no time in leaving their quarters for the hotel and then rushing to the surf. There was no gaudy display of many of them were tired and glad to be free from the confined quarters of their special trains for the time being. The golf links were in demand in the afternoon.

A number of San Francisco and Oakland bond men were on hand to meet the Eastern contingents for the first time. They came early to spend the hours between now and the convention in extending the circle of their acquaintance. More are due tomorrow and, when the first session opens Monday, it is expected there will be at least two scores of California men in the delegation.

COMMITTEE MEETS.

The first actual business of the convention began shortly after the arrival of the special trains, when Lyman Wakefield of Minneapolis, chairman of the committee on municipal securities, called a short business meeting of the body. The question of tax exempt securities is one that is expected to be discussed at some length by the convention and the matter of the millions of this type of bonds issued the past few years by municipalities is expected to come in for considerable attention. Municipal and state bonds are in big demand because of the tax exempt features, but they are not in specially high favor with Investment Bankers.

There is small profit in handling them and they attract capital from industry and productive enterprises of all sorts, from the point of view of the bond men, to the detriment of general progress.

This whole question is expected to be ventilated at this gathering and possibly recommendation made to Congress on legislation designed to put an end to the tax exempt feature of investment. Sunday there will be three short meetings of the body.

Way may be cleared for calling of delegates to order at nine o'clock Monday morning by President H. S. Beebe.

Captain J. Perret, French army officer, now director of the French Government Tourist Information office in New York, is taking in the gathering in the interest of securities the government and financiers of France have to offer the people of this country. He likens this state, particularly Santa Barbara and Del Monte, to southern France, and the people of this state he says are the most hospitable he has met.

It is the duty of my office in New York to advise Americans concerning France. I find great interest among those delegates and people I have met on the trip in the recovery of the French Republic from the ravages of the late war said Perret. The French people are industrious and thrifty and fully appreciative of the favors shown them by this country and your good people of California, in particular. We pledge the same faith and value back of our securities as do you people of California and I hope, through the intimate touch I have established with your investment bankers, to create a feeling of still greater confidence in the security we have to market in this country.

GOVERNORS WELCOME.

Governor Stephens has issued the following welcome to the delegates to the convention:

"California's people are glad of an opportunity of extending a sincere welcome to the Investment Bankers' Association of America, whose members will gather in annual convention in Del Monte on October 8, 1922.

"In their behalf, I, as chief executive, ask you to stay as long as you can and return as frequently as possible.

"We are proud of our state and believe that within its borders is embraced a veritable empire in the infancy of development, and I urge you to investigate well our resources and productions during the brief period of your visit.

"Nowhere else under the sun has nature been more lavish in showing her bounty and her beauty. Our mountains are rich in mineral wealth and water power locations, our valleys yield most abundantly of every known crop, and our coastal fields are still of untold value.

"California invites your thoughtful investigation, to the end that you may share in the rewards resulting from the development of our soil and natural resources.

"May your visit be made pleasant during every hour that you are in California. When you return to your homes, I trust that you will carry with you the most pleasant memories of the Golden State and I bespeak for the people of California your future interest in the further upbuilding of the Golden State.

Here is Convention Committee Chairman Cyrus Pearce's salutation to the delegates: "To the Investment Bankers of America, Greeting.

"As has been evident to you all week, your hosts for this, our eleventh annual convention, comprises a far greater company than merely the thirty-six member banks of the twenty-seven banks of offices composing the California group. California bids you welcome through the men who are doing things in this state—the men whom you have met in the swing around the California circle.

"California understands how much it means to this state to have you men who have been an important factor in financing large enterprises and for yourselves the resources of California and gain a first hand comprehension of the magnitude of their development.

"Proud to be selected for the first convention west of the Rockies, California confidently hopes that the 1922 meeting will hold high place in the annals of the organization's constructive activities."

OFFICERS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF P. O. ROBBER

Woman in Charge of Mail At Jackson Bruised and Cut By Armed Bandit.

Special to THE TRIBUNE. JACKSON, Oct. 7.—Not the slightest trace has been found of an armed bandit who yesterday afternoon held up the postoffice at Jackson and escaped with $500, mostly in currency. Officers believe the robbery was committed by men well acquainted with the premises and the method of conducting the office.

Mrs. James A. Berry, who was in charge at the time, says she opened the side door in response to knocks, following a custom usually pursued with clerks from business firms to get packages. The bandit, wearing a black mask, thrust a revolver in her face and compelled her to precede him to the rear room, where he hurled her down a flight of steps into the basement, closing and locking the door. The money was taken from the cash drawer, but no attempt was made to open the safe.

Nobody saw the man come or go. Mrs. Doris Motley, daughter of Mrs. Berry, arrived 15 minutes later and heard her mother's calls. She summoned Postmaster Heiser and Mr. Marshall Marquess, who released Mrs. Berry. She was badly bruised and cut about the face and hands by the fall.

BERKELEY WOMAN DENIES MURDER HEADS MISSIONS STILL A MYSTERY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—All the officers of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, which is holding its 34th annual convention at the Central Methodist Episcopal church, Leavenworth and O'Farrell streets, were re-elected yesterday with the exception of the president.

Mrs. Alfred Matthews of Berkeley was elected to head the organization, replacing Mrs. George B. Smyth, who has held that post for the past 20 years.

Among the speakers yesterday was Mrs. J. J. Van Nostand, who spoke of India and conditions prevailing there. She said that India was a country of scholars, "who can neither read nor write, have a strong religious sense, an appreciation of music and other signs of culture." The speaker pointed out that the people of India are now at the point where practically all are eager for western influence.

Other speakers of the day included: Miss Lily Dexter Greene, of Lahore, India; Rev. Leon Loeb, of New York; L. S. Siefkes and Mrs. S. P. Johnson.

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—Check of the names and addresses, comprising mainly young women in this city, noted in the diary of G. N. Dernier of Phoenix and Chicago, produced no vital evidence to clear away the mystery of his murder, sheriff's officers here said today.

The majority of the persons questioned disclaimed anything but a passing acquaintance with Dernier and a number said they had not even met him.

One woman, Mrs. Ruth Dean, and Helen Bell, admitted they had been guests at a cafe dinner where they met Dernier and furnished the only facts to corroborate reports of motoring escapades in the life of the Phoenix clubman, whose strangled body was taken from an irrigation ditch near Phoenix nearly a month ago.

Cummins Plans to Defend His Record

DES MOINES, Oct. 7. (AP)—Senator A. B. Cummins will not enter the Iowa campaign either to defeat Colonel Brookhart or to help the Democratic candidate, but he may appear as a special guest in the case of the Republican party unless he finds that such action would injure the candidacy of the Republican Congressmen candidates.

The senior senator made it clear that he had not changed his opinion of the colonel, but said that his letter regarding Brookhart, which Clyde C. Smith, a Des Moines newspaper editor, was not made public with his consent.

Brookhart has denounced the letter for a half a dozen years and his attitude on public questions," he stated. "I want the people of Iowa to know the truth about the transportation act. I shall not speak if I hear any more of this kind of talk."

EXPRESS HISTORY FROM CARPET BAG TO PRESENT TOLD

Conquering of Time, Season,
Indians Related By State Official.

How the first express company, consisting of a carpet bag in the hands of a former railroad conductor, developed into an organization that competed with the United States government, conquered Indians and distance, and finally revolutionized commercial methods throughout the world, was described to members of the High Twelve club at a luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday.

The speaker was J. C. Harriman, assistant rate expert of the State Railroad Commission.

The first express company came into being in 1839, according to Harriman, when W. F. Harnden, a conductor on the Boston & Worcester railroad in Massachusetts, began taking a carpet bag with him on his trips and carrying small parcels from one station to another along the road.

START OF WELLS-FARGO. The business grew too large for the carpet bag in the course of time and Harnden bought a trunk in which to carry the parcels, and hired two assistants. These were Henry Wells and a youth named Fargo, who together later became known throughout the world as Wells-Fargo.

The growth of Harnden's express business was very gradual until an incident occurred which brought home graphically to the American public the significance and possibilities of the new industry. An organization which was holding a banquet in Buffalo one night, dined on oysters. These had been transported by Harnden's express company from Baltimore to Buffalo. The news spread quickly and the public awoke to the fact that a new and quick means of transportation had come into existence. That was in 1842.

Soon after the business reached this stage, Harnden took an ambitious step. He entered into competition with the United States government in the transporting of mail. At that time mail matter moved very slowly, and to send each letter cost 25 cents. Harnden's company carried letter with greater speed than did the Federal government, and he charged only 5 cents apiece. Soon the government was compelled to reduce its price accordingly, in order to remain in the postoffice business.

THE DISCOVERY OF GOLD IN California and the rapid settlement of the Far West, brought new possibilities. There was to be done between the pioneers out on the coast and their relatives, friends and favorite commercial houses "back East."

THE EXPRESS FOUNDED. These difficulties the company met by the introduction of the pony express. The pony express lasted three years until the railroad came through.

The men who rode for the pony express were an unusually fearless lot. Two of these were Bet Hale and Buffalo Bill.

It was at the instance of the late John J. Valentine of Oakland that the head offices of the Wells-Fargo company were moved from the east to San Francisco. Valentine, president of the company, having formed a strong affection for California, insisted that the president's office be located here.

The express companies of the United States are now doing a business so great that their deficit alone, during one of the post-war years, amounted to $23,000,000. They are now, under the semi-consolidation known as the American Railway Express, guaranteed against loss by the federal government.

Gowns of Former Generations Brought Out for Review at Hayward Club Frolic

Hill and Valley Organization Sponsors Affair Noted for Variety of Costumes.

HAYWARD, Oct. 7.—Despite the great variety of costumes worn at last night's Frolic of Bygone Days, the first social event of the season given in Native Sons hall by the Hill and Valley Club, the predominating feature of the evening was not the vividness of picture presented but the abundance of modern formalities for old fashioned, simple ways of enjoyment. More than 400 guests were in attendance at the festival, the majority of them in costume dating from the colonial period down to the days of 1905. Most of the costumes worn were heirlooms many cases generations, by families here.

The ball was opened with a grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. John Allan Park. Mrs. Park was the founder of the Hill and Valley Club, and has been one of the leading members of the club since its organization. Matrons of Hayward, once more accustomed themselves to long flowing trains and spacious skirts, debutantes and members of the younger set, for the first time familiar with the difficulties mother met with in days when she was a debutante, men who had burrowed deep to resurrect old swallow-tailed coats, square, flat hats, or tall steeppes, and brightly colored vests, and their sons, wondering how the deuce father ever managed to get by in such an outfit, filled the hall. Memories of days when dresses worn were new were discussed in every corner.

Among the most picturesque costumes of the evening were those of Mrs. George Asmusen, president of the club; Mrs. Henry Powell, in charge of the arrangements for the evening; Mrs. J. D. Smiley; Mrs. Sarah E. Hoyt; Mrs. George Asmusen; Mrs. Hal E. Angus; Mrs. W. W. Hale; Mrs. E. Hoar; Miss Nina McLeod and Miss Rovalia Wichman.

Mrs. Powell wore a gown which, twenty-five years ago was a late Parisian model. The gowns worn by Mrs. Hoyt and Mrs. Kavanagh were seventy years old; those of Mrs. Peter Hoar, Miss Wichman and Mrs. Hale, fifty; while Mrs. Smalley and Mrs. Manter wore dresses of a period from 1895 to 1905. Miss McLeod was gown in the wedding dress of her mother, and was attended by Cedric Macabee, who wore his father's wedding suit. Mrs. Angus was dressed in a gown of colonial period, and Mrs. Moll of about 1865.

HAYWARD, Oct. 7.—Transfer of three acres in the upper portion of Memorial Park to the Boy Scout council to provide a Scout camp grounds and drill field was suggested today by J. L. Wilbur, a member of the local board of trustees. It is believed that Wilbur may propose such action at a future meeting of the city council.

H. G. Cotton, landscape engineer, has suggested that the city purchase adjacent land to the park in order to insure against encroachment upon its scenic values.

HAYWARD, Oct. 7.—Columbus' night, on October 12, will be a special feature of the Catholic church's fair to open in Native Sons' hall, October 11, it was announced today. On this evening the Hayward Council of the Knights of Columbus will have charge of the fair.

Danger of Epidemic Is Said to Be Over. NAVY MAN DIES NEAR CHEFOO ON MOUNTAIN HIKE

VALLEJO, Oct. 7.—Details of the death of Laurence B. Wilkes, warrant officer in the naval service, have been received here by relatives. Wilkes, while visiting at Chefoo, Calif., made a long hike last night to visit some old ruins, and the exertion caused by the trip into the mountains brought on a heart attack.

His friend worked over him for two hours in an attempt to revive him, and seeing that his efforts were fruitless, made Wilkes as comfortable as possible and went for medical assistance. On his return with the doctors and nurse it was discovered that Wilkes had expired.

The body was placed on board the Buffalo and will be brought to the navy yard Monday and taken to San Diego for a military funeral on October 13.

Wilkes was nearly 39 years old. He will be buried on his birthday. He was a descendant of one of the oldest families in America and a direct descendant of the late General Sam Houston.

SIX MONTHS ARE ADDED TO STATE NORMAL COURSES

New Standards For California Institutions Also Provided For at Conference.

The extension of normal school courses from two to two and one-half years and the fixing of new standards for these institutions, marked the conference of the State Board of Education with a group of educators which is being concluded today at the Hotel Oakland. The new regulations will require all teachers coming here from other states to have a two and one-half year course in a teachers' college in order to qualify. It was declared by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of schools. This rule will only be in keeping with the requirements for men and women teachers residing in this state.

The resolution adopted by the state board laid down a standard requiring normal schools to have a minimum of twenty instructors, at least one-half of whom must possess a bachelor's degree from a reputable college. It also called for decrees and issue certificates to teachers.

COMMITTED IS NAMED. A committee headed by Will C. Wood was appointed to investigate the state teachers' schools to determine whether they are complying with the required standard. This committee will report back to a meeting of the State Board of Education to be held November 20 in one of the bay cities.

The resolution adopted named the following as standard institutions coming within the four-year course requirements: San Francisco Teachers' College, San Jose Teachers' College, San Diego Teachers' College, Santa Barbara Teachers' College, Chico Teachers' College, Fresno Teachers' College, and Arcata Teachers' College.

The conference also is considering its standards to be required of institutions preparing pupils for high school, elementary and special teaching positions.

The aim of the conference, it was explained by E. P. Clark, president of the State Board of Education who presided, is to standardize a code of requirements to ensure the highest quality of teachers for all schools in the state and so that a teacher trained in any college can meet the required test.

MANY EDUCATORS PRESENT. Leading educational institutions in the state are represented at the conference in addition to the members of the State Board of Education.

The University of California is represented at the conference by C. L. Rugh, professor of education; Stanford, by E. P. Cubberly, dean of the college of education; the San Francisco State College of Education, by the president, Dr. Fred Burk. Other colleges and schools represented at the conference are Mills College, southern branch of the University of California, Pomona College, State Teachers' College of San Jose, State Teachers' College at San Diego, State Teachers' College of Humboldt and State Teachers' College of Chico. The Oakland School Department was represented at the meeting today by Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter.

Centerville C. of C. Discusses Topics. CENTERVILLE, Oct. 7.—The building and the sewer project were the main topics to be taken up at the meeting of the Centerville Chamber of Commerce last night, according to J. A. Conney, president of the organization.

The housing situation in Centerville is one that is causing considerable thought on the part of the chamber. Several families that have come here to settle recently have been forced to take homes outside the town because there were no places for rent or sale. It was learned from members of the organization.

HAYWARD SCHOOL TRUSTEES ORDER SLIDES REMOVED

All Playground Apparatus Likely to Go in View of Liability Incurred.

HAYWARD, Oct. 7.—Following the ruling of U. S. Webb, attorney general of the state, that members of the board of trustees of schools may be held liable for injuries suffered by school children on school grounds, members of the Hayward board have ordered the removal of slides from the school playgrounds in the city. Swings had been previously ordered removed, and it is probable that bars may also be eliminated. Judge Jacob Harder, clerk of the board said today that the elimination of the playground material is the result of Webb's recent ruling.

Further equipment of playground in the Castro Valley school has been stopped because of Webb's ruling, according to H. A. Lenthum, a citizen there. It is believed that a general protest may be started throughout the Hayward and Castro Valley districts which may to some extent affect the maintenance of the playground ruling.

Members of the local board of school trustees have expressed themselves in a way which intimates that hope for the establishment of a completely equipped playground in the grammar schools is not to be looked for as long as such ruling stands.

Grape Growers Charge Misuse Of Coast Cars

Lodi Men Wire Interstate Commission to Ask if Law Is a Joke.

LODI, Oct. 7.—Local grape growers want to know if the interstate commerce commission's orders relative to moving empty refrigerator cars westward is a joke. George W. Ashby, representing large interests in this district, yesterday sent this wire to J. C. Roth, interstate commerce commissioner, Washington: "Our records show a woeful misuse of Pacific Coast refrigerator equipment by eastern railroads. Here are two instances: the Michigan Central sent thirty empties from Jackson to Lodi on September 27; twelve empties from Suspension Bridge to Boston. On September 28 the Erie had 602 empties on hand, against 324 on September 27th, with no movement of empties on that road. All this is contrary to interstate commerce commission orders. Do not hear of any arrests. Is it a joke?"

Jones show that taxes to be collected by his office this year total $2,304,091.61, an increase of $284,000 over last year's total. RAISULI

"Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead?" Who can fail to remember this telegram, framed at the Republican convention in Chicago from the lips of Theodore Roosevelt, a telegram designed for the Sultan, at Tangier and never sent? It fastened an attention upon the convention and upon Raisuli and it tripped eloquently from the tongue.

Perdicaris was an American subject born in Athens. With his son-in-law, one Cromwell Varley, Briton, he was summering in the Beni Arrez Hills when Raisuli, the Robin Hood of Morocco and various other places, stepped in on a house party and seized them. Raisuli appeared dramatically out of the night, his form wrapped in the heavy mantle of accepted villainy. While an orchestra played and men and women danced, he removed the host and took him to the hills. Then Raisuli asked a ransom and the slogan sounded from far-off Chicago, "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead?"

Raisuli did not die. The sultan, rather than be bothered with diplomatic bickerings and the necessity for capturing a slippery bandit, paid the ransom and Perdicaris was liberated. It cost the Sultan $70,000 and, doubtless, one or two sleepless nights.

After that Raisuli was heard from frequently. Because he carried off his affairs with the requisites for dramatics, humor and romance, anger toward him was tempered with mirth. Sometimes he was gruesome as when Walter B. Harris, correspondent of the London Times, for whom a ransom of $50,000 was asked, discovered in his tent one morning a headless body dressed in his own clothes. The ransom was paid for Harris. Again, the Sultan tried to treat with the bandit only to have the emissary taken prisoner. Raisuli appeared in Spain, in Morocco, Italy and Turkey. No one could catch him. Perdicaris said the bandit was an engaging rogue, "gracious and dignified."

Now it is announced Raisuli has surrendered on terms which will guarantee him a peaceful old age. He is tired of dodging around Morocco and the Balkans and possibly finds the business of war has interfered with his quiet.

WHAT'S THE BEST BAIT?

The old questions asked each day on the wharves and on the rivers and bay where fishing craft meet are being answered by science and a small boy. "What are you using for bait?" and "What are they biting on?" will go out of the Waltonian lexicon if the fisherman reacts to learned suggestion and applies to the ancient sport this knowledge which has been made available.

W. E. Allen, biologist of the University of California's branch at La Jolla, observed a small boy operating upon fish with a jackknife and discovered the lad was going into the bait question after the manner of the scientist. This is how Allen tells the story:

"Real thinking about things is often productive of an active effort to learn facts about them. It is the basis of real scientific investigation. This summer I was a good deal interested in the fact that Donald Fry, a high school boy from South Pasadena, had been doing the kind of definite thinking which leads to investigation.

"His particular line of thought was concerning the food of different kinds of fishes seen and caught about the pier. Finally he whetted up his pocket knife and proceeded to examine the stomach contents of fish which he caught. What is more important as indicating a scientific tendency of work is the fact that he also took notes, thus making accurate record of his information which he was then able to organize.

"Finding him thus inclined we were able to give him some temporary assistance with our facilities and I am sure that a good many people will be interested in what he found in the few fish which he examined.

"In three specimens of surf perch, each about seven inches long, he found several accubarnacles and pieces of shell, ten goose neck barnacles and parts of others, some small mussels and fragments, small clams and fragments, a sand crab and parts of others, a piece of worm, more or less sand and some small creatures more or less resembling shrimps.

"In five specimens of chub mackerel about nine inches long he found four very small fish, various pieces of fish, about one hundred eyes of small fish, various pieces of bait, perhaps several hundred of two or three kinds of very small jelly fish, three very small crabs, a beach fly and a great many small animals more or less resembling shrimps.

"Probably most of us might expect the surf perch to eat many different kinds of things but we would hardly expect mackerel to use so many different kinds. At any rate these short studies show that if one wants to know what is in a fish he must look inside to find out."

It is just possible after reading this a number of contemplative gentlemen who have worried over often at the lack of piscatorial appetite will revise their opinions as to the value of university research.

THE PUBLIC SAFETY.

Few subjects, the country over, are attracting so much attention as that of careful automobile driving. From the ranks of the automobilists and pedestrians have come elements to curb the reckless minority of peers and make the streets and highways.

Within a few days the "Courtesy" among motorists has been given prominence. It involves a pledge and puts the driver in honor. More than that it aids in establishing a tradition and code which will not record the careless man.

Here in the Eastbay the Safety Council suggested the formation of a citizens' committee to aid the police department in the management of the menacing driver. Such a committee will have a fertile field for operation should be an active agent in reducing the number of accidents.

In the meantime if every patrolman, detective and officer on the force acts as an ardent officer, instead of leaving that duty to the lie squad, more relief may be obtained. There are corners in Oakland where automobiles are parked up to the crossing line and pedestrians emerge from behind a parked car without any chance to look up the street. Citizens' committee, if it be composed at least partially of pedestrians, might consider question. It might also occur to such a committee that certain delivery boys who recklessly about the city should be given a son for the good of the greatest number and who cut corners and neglect to signal should be called to time.

Since the Safety Council has taken up the work the results have been apparent. It is the support of the greatest number for careful driving can never be stopped until it is the business of all the careful drivers and drivers to co-operate in their detection.

BEHIND THE SCENERY.

An Oakland writer is going to Hawaii to write a novel which shall have nothing with nukeles or moonlight. Presumably there will be no maidens dancing on the beach, enervated while man stupefying a trio with potent native liquors, and no desperate midnight leap into the crater of a rose-pink volcano.

The world will wait for the new story which is to come out of Hawaii. There has been nothing new from there since Hermann Melville wrote of its youth and romance. After that the old things crept in, things which are old the world over. Someone invented the ukelele and the Hawaiian dancers took to touring the vaudeville circuits of the United States. Behind the postal card stands, the far famed beaches, and the tourist hotels there is a story in Hawaii, a story of sugar, race problems, the battle against leprosy, the struggle of the remnants of a race to preserve their identity, and the emergence of a unique political power.

If this writer establishes a custom readers may expect stories from Japan without a "Butterfly," Hindu yarns without a shrouded figure dancing in front of a temple, British tales minus the monocle and drooping moustache, and the Irish one in which there is no old lady smoking a pipe. There may even come a Russian story without a suicide or murder. Many writers write those things which they believe the public expects them to set down. They do no more than people the stage of their stories with accepted characters. It is to be hoped the Oakland young man will forget all he has read or heard of Hawaii, for then his may be a story worth reading.

A show which is assured success before it starts is the "Yankee Parade" to be sponsored by the American Legion from November 4th to 11th. It will be a circus, cabaret, fashion show, casino and high jinks in one and the date is one the public will do well to keep in mind.

A good way to curb radicalism would be for users of soap to burn the boxes.

Constantine Act of Abduction has disappeared in the office of the official printer. Perhaps they will make out it was a typographical error.

DAILY ALMANAC

Saturday, October 7.
The first Colonial Congress was held in New York in 1765. Margaret, Maid of Norway, died in 1290. Edgar Allan Poe died in 1849. Battle of King's Mountain, 1780. The Chicago fire, 1871.

There is a woman of our acquaintance who holds in her memory an experience of real terror. It came when she volunteered to carry in her suitcase two bottles of wine. They slush-slashed as she walked, making a noise like a disturbed hot water bottle or the gentle brook lapping the polished stone. This woman passed policemen and the bottles sang their song. She entered the train and held the suitcase with firm grip when the porter tried to take it.

"No, George," she said, "I'll carry it."

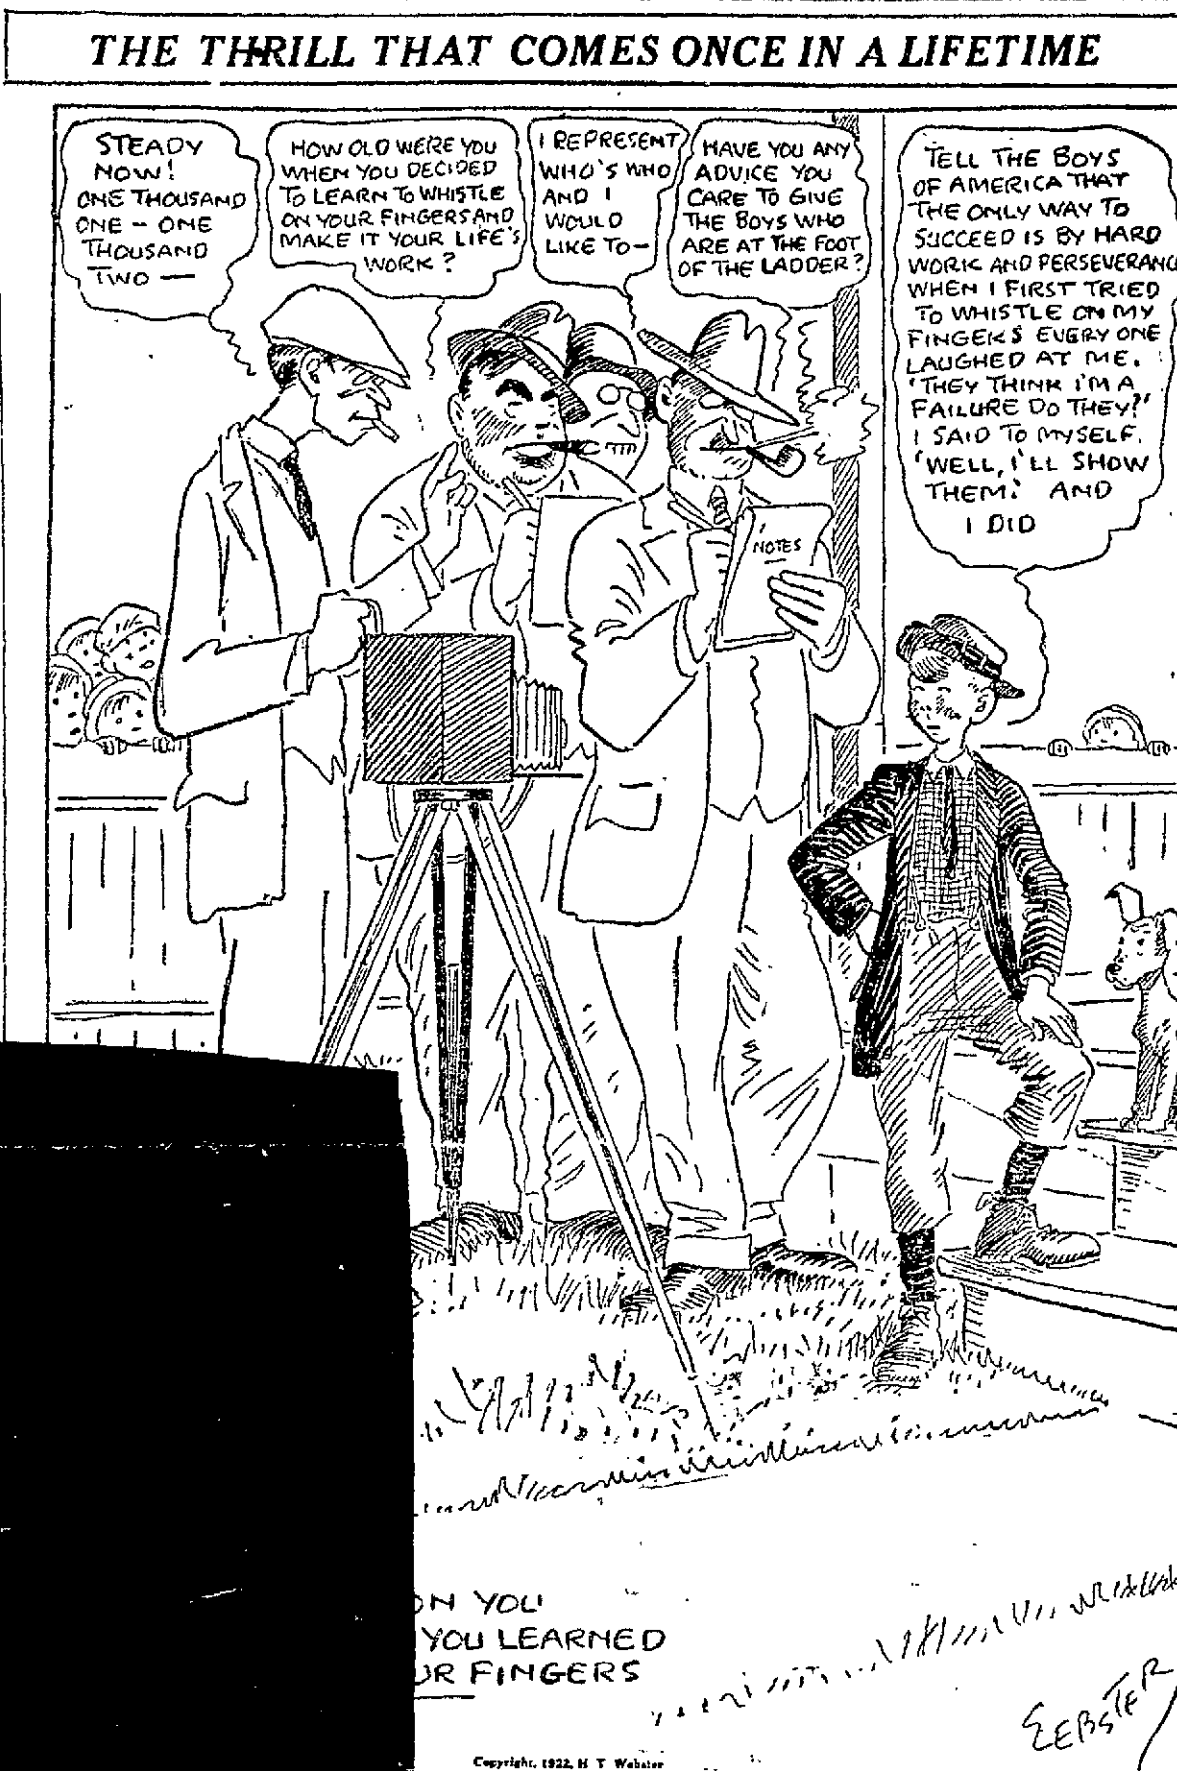

"Indeed not. No lady need carry her kippers on mah train."

"Well, be careful then. It contains a bowl of goldfish."

Slush-slashed. The suitcase was carried with care to the berth. Next morning George carried it to the end of the car and waited to assist the woman to the platform.

"Dat gold fish," he said, grinning.

"Dat gold fish is no gold fish. He is a whale."

Chicago Daily News: "All things considered, the cat is probably the most practical of living critters, a fact of which we got a little demonstration this morning. Then with an air of 'We mustn't let sentiment interfere with business; if we have to lay over in this burg we might as well canvass it for prospects,' she set herself to stalking a sparrow out on one of the long limbs."

about YOUR HEALTH

Why Shouldn't You Live a Hundred Years Happily.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health of New York City.

One of old said: "Man does not die, he kills himself." The other day a somewhat famous physician said:

"I know how to live to be one hundred, but I am not living that sort of life."

Both these philosophers were stating the same truth, for surely the second man quoted, if he knows how to live to be a hundred, is killing himself if he does not apply his knowledge to his own salvation.

Carlyle said that "man digs his grave with his teeth." Undoubtedly the majority of chronic diseases may be traced to wrong eating.

Few factors enter into the formula of long life.

Let us compare the essential elements of life to a five-room house and lot. The house has a "living room" or a reception room for entertainment, a kitchen for the choice and preparation of the food, a dining room, the place where food is eaten, a sleeping room where rest is taken, a bathroom for cleanliness, a dooryard and garden for work and healthful exercise.

This cottage in its garden contains all the physical conditions necessary to a long life. This is existence reduced to the lowest terms.

For every man and woman 21 years of age, provided there has been a normal childhood and youth, would govern the daily life by the routine of such a humble home as I have described, there would be every prospect of living to be a hundred.

Whenever you begin to moralize and to lay down terms and conditions, there is always somebody ready to smite you hip and thigh. I can hear a thousand exclaim:

"According to your theory, then, the inmates of a five-room cottage are immune to the ordinary factors making for disease and death?"

Not at all. Many persons drown who are equipped with life-preservers. "Absolutely fireproof" buildings burn. Thermostats may fail to regulate the temperature. Puncture-proof tires blow up.

Likewise, you may live in the most attractive little place in the world and die at 25.

But if you will study carefully what should be done in each of the five rooms and dooryard I have described you have mastered all there is to be known about the physical needs of mortal man.

It is assumed that in the kitchen are prepared the right foods. Meals are planned which contain the right amount of food, the balance of diet. The cooking is done in such manner as to preserve the minerals and to exclude harmful things.

The dining room is not entered too frequently, and never left in haste. It is a place where you linger over your food. Under no circumstances does it become a "quick lunch" restaurant. Here you chew your food, limit the quantities consumed, and aim to mix eating with pleasant conversation.

Your sleeping room is well-ventilated, with easily-moved windows and capable of being kept dark and cool. You go to bed to sleep—not to read, smoke or loaf.

Your bathroom is in frequent use because cleanliness is next to godliness. You wash your hands many times daily and always before eating. You wash your face and hands, and the inside of your nose with soap and water before going to bed. You scrub your teeth at least twice a day, and have a daily bath.

You spend a reasonable part of each day in your garden or out-of-doors somewhere. No day passes without such physical exercise as results in perspiration.

Your recreation room has some sort of musical instrument, a radio set, various games and an endless number of books and magazines. There must be attraction here to suit every mood.

To this life of simplicity may be added automobile, private car, yacht and all the fixings of wealth, but here are the fundamentals of health and long life. Many of the things added to these essentials are deadly, and make true the saying that man kills himself.

Knowing how to live to be one hundred, why don't we do it?

FIRE CHIEF ORDERS MEN FOR REVIEW

Entire Oakland Department Will Be Paraded and Inspected in Front of City
Hall Monday Morning

Orders have been issued to all the elements in the fire department to concentrate in downtown Oakland Monday morning for the first parade, review and inspection held by the fire department since 1911. Fire Chief Sam Short arranged with the police department for police assistance along the line of march, and all the apparatus in the city were just enough to protect each district, will be raised at Third and Broadway at 11:30 Monday morning.

The line of march will be from Third to Eleventh, thence to Clay, to Fourteenth, to Washington, around the plaza, and then along Fourteenth to Harrison.

The review and inspection will be held on Washington street, in front of the city hall. Mayor Davis, the commissioners and city officials, will be at the Washington street entrance to the city hall, to review the assembled fire department. The firemen's band will head the parade.

New First Aid Club Formed in Alameda

ALAMEDA, Oct. 7.—Absorbing the principles of first aid and public health work is the purpose of a new club of 20 Alameda high school girls, recently organized under the supervision of Miss E. Barker, biology instructor. Miss Barker will sponsor the club as faculty advisor and assist in perfecting the organization. According to present plans, the second meeting of the club will be held in the high school Thursday afternoon, October 12. Officers will be chosen at that time, a name selected for the club and the immediate work for the members outlined. Among the present plans being carried by the club is the establishing of a first aid station in the high school building.

High School Alumni Invited to Concert

ALAMEDA, Oct. 7.—A special appeal is being made to all graduates of the Alameda high school by members of the Star and Key honor societies of the institution to attend in a body a benefit concert for the society's loan fund on the night of October 12. It is the aim of those in charge of the evening to make the affair a sort of "Get Together Meeting" for the graduates.

The entire program for the evening is to be given by the University of California Glee club. It will be held in the auditorium of the Porter school, with John Shaffer, president of the society, acting as chairman for the evening. The Citizens' Committee of the school and members of the various Parent-Teachers Association are sponsoring the concert.

Santa Clara Firemen Will Hold Banquet

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 7.—The Hose Brigade Fire Company, of the Santa Clara fire department, will hold their annual banquet this evening, and will have as guests Assistant Chief Plummer, George Welch, John Humburg, E. W. Powers and Milton Johnson, members of the San Jose fire department.

GIRL ATHLETES COMPETING FOR SCHOOL TROPHY

Girls of the Junior High Schools and Sixth Grade Schools are competing today at Mosswood Park in athletic contests and posture parades.

The Junior High Schools held their competitions this morning. The schools represented are: Alexander, Hamilton, Clatsop, Elmhurst, Garfield, Golden Gate, Intermediate, University High, Lazeur, Lockwood, Prescott and Tompkins.

The Sixth Grade Schools represented in the competition this afternoon are: Campbell, Cleveland, Chesney, Peralta, Rockridge, Santa Fe, Sequoia and Stonehurst.

The competitions are being held under the supervision of the Recreation Department with Ruth M. Findlay, general supervisor of girls' activities, in charge.

Keen rivalry between the schools, marked the various events today, every girl exerting herself to the utmost in an effort to win trophies for her school. The meet was not in any sense a fashion parade. This was made sure by the rules of the Recreation Department which limited costumes to regulation middie blouses, blue or black bloomers and cotton stockings.

The schedule of events is as follows:

- Singing games.
- Organized Games.
- Parade and Posture Test.

A banner will be given to the school presenting the best Posture and Appearance. They will be judged as to: Posture in standing, sitting, and walking; Posture in marching; Posture in standing; Posture in sitting; Posture in walking; Posture in marching; Posture in standing; Posture in sitting; Posture in walking; Posture in marching.

Click ball; Bat ball; Net ball; Baseball, (12-inch ball, 45-foot bases); Nine court Basketball (19 min. intermission); Volley ball; Stunt relay; Indian Club relay; Shuttle relay; Square relay; Obstacle relay; (10 min. halves); Run and Catch relay.

Colbourn, Eustace Ferguson, Rolf Michelson, Thelma Tukey, Dorothy Klemp, Olga Tegner, Catherine Mulqueneay, Vieta Archer, Patricia Colbourn, Frances Schumilswitz, Waldo Walpole, Dorothy Harslopp, Mildred Rasmussen, Bernice Syke, Eleanor Vaughn, Gustie Jacobs, Dorothy Fry, Eraldo Soleri, Lillian Bernstein, Bernette Paulson, Mary Windle and Kenneth Meakin.

School Signs Gone From Board Offices

BERKELEY, Oct. 7.—The board of education offices on Allston way near Shattuck avenue are signless today.

The theft of two signs, one bearing the inscription "Business Manager" and the other labelled "Superintendent of Schools," has been reported to the police by the local authorities.

The authorities believe the signs were taken as a prank.

BERKELEY DRIVE MANAGES TO NET FIFTY AUTOISTS

BERKELEY, Oct. 7.—Fifty autoists were arrested last night along San Pablo avenue for minor infractions of traffic laws. State Traffic Officer Lester Manning conducted the "raid" on automobile drivers, assisted by Officers P. J. O'Keefe, Edward Maeshner, John Larson and William Peck of the Berkeley police department.

The arrests were made for failure to have operator's licenses, lack of tail lights and license plates and other minor infractions. All were released on $9 bail on each charge and cited to appear before Judge Robert Edgar next week.

Oaklanders Continue Aid Of Argonaut Mine Victims

Citizens of Oakland continue to respond generously to the call for funds to relieve the distress of the bereaved families of the Argonaut mine victims. The total transmitted thus far through The TRIBUNE now stands at $1884.25. Checks were received today from the following: Mrs. S. W. Rawlins, $10; Washington Market, $25; a friend, $1.

The distress among the wives, children and other dependents of the 47 miners who died in the $350-level of the burning and gas-filled mine shaft and whose fate was so long the object of feverish anxiety, is still acute. With cold weather approaching there is a great need for warm clothing and money is also needed for food and other necessities.

The money which is being collected by a committee, of which Harold Katchinsky is chairman, is forwarded to Mrs. Mary Warrington, chairman of the Amador county chapter of the American Red Cross, at Jackson. All contributions are acknowledged in The TRIBUNE.

Former Traffic Officer Must Serve 30 Days

BERKELEY, Oct. 7.—Beginning Monday, Henry Villa, former Berkeley traffic officer, must spend twenty days in the county jail for speeding in the college city.

This was the decision of Superior Judge Lincoln Church yesterday in hearing an appeal from Villa from a sentence imposed two months ago by Judge Robert Edgar after a jury of women had convicted the former Berkeley officer of violating speed laws. Villa's was the first trial of its kind ever to be held before a jury in Berkeley.

Arrested by Officer Clarence Taylor, Villa is declared to have traveled more than 30 miles per hour in congested residential districts and following his being taken into custody is said by the arresting officer to have speeded to the police station.

Villa was represented by Attorney Myron Harris in seeking to prove that his arrest by a former associate in the police department was a "frame-up."

Villa, who has been employed as an automobile mechanic since resigning from the Berkeley police department last year, resides at the Hotel Central in the College City.

Teacher's Slayer Sentenced to Die

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 7.—William Cress, the "Kentucky sweetheart," was sentenced by Judge Smith to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison during the week of November 6. Cress, Fort Thomas, Ky., was convicted of the slaying of his wife, Mary Cress, a Freeport school teacher, as she lay in his arms in her apartment.

LAYERS DELAY GOING TO JAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—A technical delay again intervened today to save Frank J. Murphy, attorney for Henry Wilkens, on trial for the murder of his wife, and William F. Herron, counsel for Arthur Casson, the state's chief witness, from going to jail for contempt of court.

The attorneys were ordered confined for 24 hours by Superior Judge Ward because of unseemly conduct and boisterous tactics last Wednesday. A writ of habeas corpus was obtained from Superior Judge Van Ostrand returnable to today, and they were liberated.

This morning when the two lawyers appeared before Judge Van Ostrand they raised the point that Sheriff Thomas Finn had failed to serve them with the commitment papers as required by law, and obtained a continuance until next Saturday.

Mothers Hear Talk on Water, Power Act

The proposed Water and Power act was discussed at a recent meeting of the Mothers' Club of the Franklin school, East Oakland, Attorney H. D. Perry being the speaker of the evening. Perry spoke against the measure, claiming that the scheme of state operation of the water and power business had been unsuccessfully attempted before.

Baker's Cocoa

is the ideal drink for growing children

Not only does its delicious flavor and aroma appeal to the palate but it supplies the body with a considerable amount of pure, wholesome and nutritious food.

Children, owing to their almost ceaseless activity, frequently require as large an amount of nourishment as adults, and good cocoa is a valuable aid in the carefully arranged diet. But its quality must be good and no cocoa can quite so well meet the requirements of dietitian, physician, nurse or housekeeper as "BAKER'S."

The Way Grace Darling Won Fame in a Day

GRACE DARLING was a daughter of the sea. She was born on the coast of Northumberland, England, at Bamburgh, November 24, 1815...

Here Grace was raised, and knew no other playmate but the great sea. For weeks the Darlings would have no communication with the outside world, and Grace spent the greater part of her time helping her father in the care of the lighthouse and her mother with her household work...

By the time Grace was 22 years of age she was a remarkably brave seaman and oftentimes was admonished by her parents for her apparent unconcern over its dangers. As Grace peered into the night from the great lighthouse and watched the angry ocean, she used to wonder whether her experiences as a sea woman would ever be a benefit to her or others...

The night of September 7, 1838, was one of the stormiest the Darlings had ever seen. All night long they watched the sea for a sign of a ship in distress. At daybreak they discovered nine people a mile away clinging to a great rock in danger of their lives...

It was a small remnant of a party which had started a few days before on the Forthshire steamer which plied between Hull and Dundee. Sixty-three persons had started on the trip, but when the ship was torn in two by the great waves, only nine remained...

Grace Darling knew that her chance had come. Regardless of her own life she did not quickly if she would save the nine persons who still clung to that rock...

Mr. and Mrs. Darling were amazed when their daughter declared her intention of trying to make the trip across the mile of sea to the wrecked boat...

When word of the daring act of Grace Darling reached England her name became a household word. A subscription of £700 was raised to reward her, and expensive presents were sent to her from all parts of the world by admirers of her bravery...

The Darling home became the rendezvous of hundreds of wonderful-seeking tourists, and offers of marriage were extended to Grace by men from every walk in life...

Four years later, when Grace Darling was but 26 years old, she died, mourned by all who had heard of her brave deed.

The Pioneers

A coyote's howl— Awoke the flattened plains— And night—mysterious—came on— As panting steed with scouting rider— Drew up beneath a lone pine tree— Hand shading eyes, the jaded man— Peered out across the white-washed plains— Dismounted and unsaddled the breath-spent horse— And hobbled him; then turned him loose— To browse upon the spear-like grass— And snort the silent hours of night away...

Then on the still warm earth the rider sank— And dreamed—and in his dreams a vision came— A vision of the day when man— Would fill this trackless, untried waste— With laughter and with song. The morning saw a caravan— Of creaking wagons—canvas-topped— And bearded men—stern-set of face— Rode grimly there and watched with anxious eyes— For signs that would forebode, but ill to those— Their hearts held dear...

For peering from the fear-filled depths of wagon beds— Were little children—hopeful wives— And well they knew the dangers that beset them— From prowling bands of lawless Reds— And goulless hordes of Renegades— So through the sleepless nights these pioneers of destiny— Looked forth with every nerve alert— While women hushed their infants' cries— With breathless caution. For well they read the gruesome signs of bleaching bones— Along the way...

But dauntless and with spirit firm they crept along— And dreamed the dreams that came to all— Of days when man would fill this waste— With laughter and with song. But years rolled by—the desert slept— The sleep of ages undisturbed— And many a man still fought his way— Across uncharted lands of doubt— And never ceased to cope with stern-set fate. Years piled on years—and still they came— All daring death to conquer...

At last arrived in this drear waste— Keen men of vision— And brought with them an army rough— With throats laid bare and unbrowned— Who worked with curses on their lips— And reveled in it. And soon a clanking band of steel— Reached on apace— And spread far out across the plains— And won the race—of destiny. Now cradled in the lap of ease— Men laugh at terrors that once were— For now they know with thankful hearts— Their fathers' dreams have all come true.

My Marriage Problems Gladie Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

The Half-Laughing Command Lillian Gave Madge.

With her unerring prescience, Lillian had struck the right note with Katie by bringing in Mrs. Ticer's name. That my little maid was jealous of Mrs. Ticer's culinary skill and care of me I had long suspected. Nothing could have so thoroughly roused her from thoughts of her own terrors as the mention of the kindly neighbor woman.

"You see, she demanded, 'Help dot Missis Ticer? Not by van barefoot! I go get supper quick! Now—dot Missis Ticer she help me!'" She drew herself up superbly, and swept out of the door without waiting for me to accompany her. Lillian and I looked at each other, then she laughed outright.

"Katie is distinctly herself again," Lillian commented dryly. "I'd better go right in," I replied worriedly. "There's likely to be a battle royal in the kitchen if there isn't some sort of police protection present." Lillian put a restraining hand on my arm. "You little know your mother-in-law," she said lightly. "A small matter like something to eat isn't going to interfere with the proper changing of beds and arrangement of rooms. When I last saw her she was walking behind the stately impetuous Mrs. Ticer, trying to hurry her. She won't think of the kitchen for another fifteen minutes, and by that time Katie will have things in full swing."

"Did you see my sister-in-law?" I asked, perfectly willing to delay my entrance into the house. "LILLIAN HAS A HUNCH."

"Is she a large, placid lady, who looks as if she'd been set to jail, and the process had been thoroughly successful?" "You've described her exactly," I laughed.

"Then she's in the big living room, reading. Pardon me for presuming to criticize your in-laws, but I no like her," Lillian said. "You're describing her as a legalized sport," I returned.

"And I don't often do it, as you know, but a woman like that always has a certain instant impulse to prod her with a hatpin just to see if she'd jump." "Go as far as you like," I said. "But seriously, Lillian, I ought to be in the house."

"But, seriously, Madge," she mimicked, "you shall be there in another minute—after I've spoken my little piece." I seated myself in the nearest chair, and folded my hands in mock resignation. I was so tired and nervous that I had to strike a note of foolery. It was either that or tears.

"Very well, Madame Chairman," I said meekly. Lillian looked at me keenly. "Don't you dare to let your yourself down until after that stunt tonight," she said, with a note of sharpness which she seldom uses. By it I judged the importance to her of the expedition we were to share with Katie.

I straightened in my chair, and snapped my hand to my forehead in a military salute. "I won't," I promised seriously, and her face and voice relaxed.

"I'm promised as a groom," she said, "but I've got one of my hunches about this affair of Katie's, and it's like finding money in the road to have a chance to listen to the performance tonight, unseen and unheard. But if Dicky knows about it he certainly will spill the beans, for he'll take the high-and-mighty masculine attitude that there's danger for us that we must have Jim and himself with us."

"JUST THE THING!" "Not Jim, under any circumstances!" I said at last. "I've just flashed back of my memory to the things Katie had asked me to recall."

If Lillian had any curiosity as to my meaning she didn't betray it. "Confidentially," I said, "I keep him from saying anything to Dicky. But Dicky simply must not know we're going, for he never could keep his temper and lie quietly by if what I suspect about this business is the truth. Now—how to keep him away."

She cupped her chin in her hands but this time ruthlessly interrupted her planning. "You forget Mother Graham," I said quickly.

She sprang to her feet, drew me to mine, and gave me an approving pat on my shoulder. "Bless her melodramatic old soul!" she said, "if Mother Graham gets the thing excited, over the thing, she'll keep Dicky away if she has to tie him to the bedstead in his room. Do you want to tackle her, or shall I?"

ABOUT WOMEN

Of so little account are women considered in many parts of China that a father, if he asked the number of his children, will probably leave the girls out of his reckoning.

In France it is illegal for a widow to contract a second marriage before 300 days have elapsed after the death of her former husband.

Miss Elsie Mackey, third daughter of Lord Inchiquin, one of England's largest ship owners, has been granted a certificate as an air pilot.

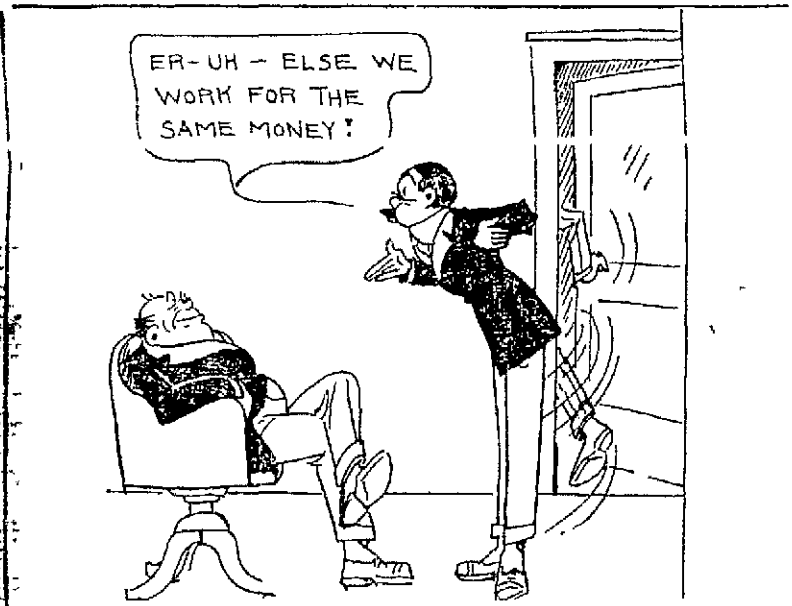

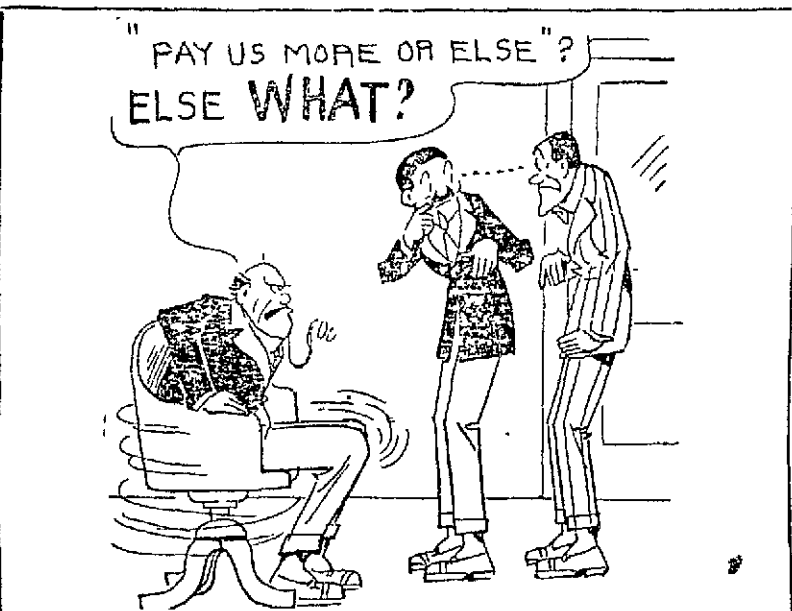

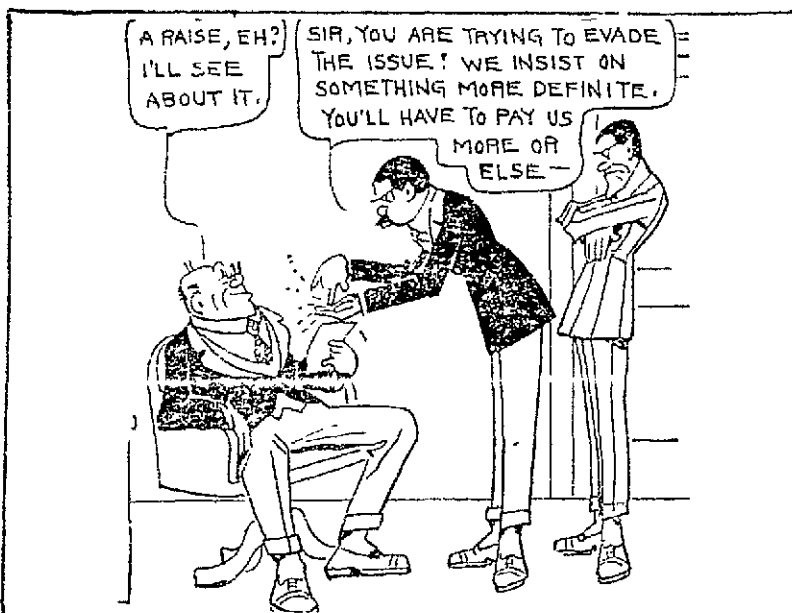

Taini

TAKE Nero, for instance. He was once the head of the Roman Empire, while I'm not even the mayor of a jerkwater town. Of course the verse writers of Nero's time roasted him in an unmerciful manner, and he is supposed of burning Rome, and he killed his brother, his mother, both his wives, and Seneca and a host of Christians. And he wrote him verse and played the violin atrociously, and wound up by committing suicide. Just the same, he made the popular eye the Latin equivalent for "Yes, sir," to him, while people generally say to me, "O wana, you runt!" "Taini" right.

cried, his pink nose eagerly twinkling. "I'll pick some 'thorns and apples off the tree. You shall eat the apples and I'll mend your new red dress with 'thorns."

"How?" asked Dottie.

"I'll use the 'thorns to pin and fasten up the rips and slits," said the bunny.

"After you get home your mother can sew the dress."

"That will be good!" beamed Dottie. Luck Wiggly picked some apples from the tree, giving them to Dottie to eat. Then he picked off some long, thin sharp 'thorns, taking care not to stick himself.

"Now sit down on this smooth stone, Dottie," said the bunny. "And I'll pin up your torn dress with 'thorns for pins."

And just as Uncle Wiggly closed the last long tear in the dress, up sneaked the Bob Cat, shaking the tassels on his ears at the bunny.

"I want ears!" howled the Bob Cat, looking at Uncle Wiggly's long ones. "I want ears!"

"And so do I," bravely cried the bunny. "I want ears to pin up with these sharp 'thorns. And I want your ears!" he cried to the Bob Cat. "I'll pin your ear tassels back to your head if you don't let me alone!" And Uncle Wiggly looked so brave as he leaped toward the Bob Cat, the bunny having sharp 'thorns in his paw, that the Bob Cat gave a howl, jumped backward and cried:

"Oh, don't pin my ears with 'thorns! Don't do it! I'll be good!"

And away he ran. I can't say that he was good, as he promised to be, but at least Uncle Wiggly got away that time.

"And it was a good thing I tore my dress!" laughed Dottie, "or else you'd never have had those 'thorns ready to sew the Bob Cat with."

"That's right!" chuckled the bunny.

And if the egg-beater doesn't throw a popcorn ball at the mantel-shelf, where the alarm clock catches it in its hands, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the slide.

Uncle Wiggly Stories

UNCLE WIGGLY AND DOTTIE'S DRESS

DOTTIE FLUFFTAIL, the little girl lamb, had a new dress. It was bright red in color, and as pretty a gown as you would meet with if you hopped around all of one day and put off the next.

At about this time, Uncle Wiggly said when he saw Dottie's new red dress, and the bunny gentleman ought to know, if any one did.

Dottie was very proud of her red dress—not too proud you know, but just proud enough and not a bit more.

"Be careful not to tear your new red dress, Dottie," beamed Mrs. Flufftail to her little girl lamb, as Dottie strolled over the meadow one day.

"I'll be careful," promised Dottie. "The only thing over to see Uncle Wiggly Longears. Ma, he'll take me adventuring with him."

"My goodness, I didn't know it was sunset so soon!" cried the bunny gentleman, shading his face with his paw. "My, what a bright red sunset! It met my eyes here!"

"That red isn't the sunset—it's my new dress!" laughed Dottie. "Oh, so it is!" chuckled Uncle Wiggly. "My, it's prettier than every red dress I ever saw!"

Every time Uncle Wiggly saw the dress on Dottie he pretended the bunny gentleman, shading his face with his paw, and that it hurt his eyes. And no matter how often Uncle Wiggly saw Dottie's red dress, he made the same joke. Dottie rather liked it.

"But now we shall go adventuring!" said the bunny. "We'll hop over the fields and through the woods, and see what happens."

The bunny gentleman and the little girl lamb were climbing up a hill when, all of a sudden, there was a ripping, tearing sound and Dottie cried:

"Don't be frightened, Dottie!" said the bunny. "What tore your dress was a bushy briar, not the Bushy Bear. Of course, the latter has thorns, which are like the briars on a bear. But a bush can't hurt you."

"Oh, but it hurt my dress!" beamed Dottie. "Look! it's torn!"

"Oh, what shall I do?" sobbed the little lamb girl.

And, surely enough, there were rents and 'lashes' in Dottie's new red dress.

"Oh, what shall I do?" sobbed the little girl lamb. "My mother told me to be careful and not to tear my dress, and I've done it. Leastways, it didn't tear at the lower bush did, and that's the same thing! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" And Dottie sat down on a rock and began to cry.

"Now, now," soothed Uncle Wiggly. "Don't cry. Sally tears never yet mended anything—not even a torn dress."

"Do you think—oh, do you think it can be mended?" asked Dottie, eagerly.

"Well, nothing is so bad but what it might be worse," spoke the bunny. "and I think perhaps your dress can be mended. Let me think now. If we had a needle and thread we could sew up the rents and rips. But I have no needle and thread."

"Fine needles wouldn't be any good, would they?" asked Dottie, looking at a pine tree on which grew long, pine needles.

"Well, I might be able to use them if I had red thread," said Uncle Wiggly. "I could use strips of grass for green thread, but a red dress sewed with green threads wouldn't look proper. Wait a moment, I have another idea. Let me look about a bit."

Uncle Wiggly looked, and soon he saw a tough apple tree growing a little farther up the hill.

"There we are, Dottie!" he

MR. TURKEY BIRDS FAIR TO BECOME EXPATRIATE BIRD

Thanksgiving Gobblers Being Raised in Australia and Other Countries.

By J. C. ROYLE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Foreign producers have invaded what for centuries has been a strictly American field. The turkey has been reared in Australia, India, and other countries. The Thanksgiving turkey is a national institution. But South America, Australia and New Zealand poultrymen are prepared to compete with American growers for the place of honor on the American dinner table on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.

As a result of this and other foreign factors the American family probably will have a fair share of Thanksgiving turkeys this year that for the last five years. A drop of nearly 10 per cent seems indicated by reports throughout the country received today.

Shipments of turkeys already have been received from Perth, Australia, River Plate ports and Australia, and sold at prices well below the scale obtaining here during the holiday season of 1921, in spite of the tariff provided for the holiday law. Under that regulation, dressed turkeys are taxed 40 cents each for birds valued up to $5 and 20 per cent on value above $5. The foreign birds arrived in excellent condition, the Australian fowls being especially fine large specimens.

It is still somewhat early to forecast definitely the price trend of domestic turkeys, but telegraphic reports from producing and marketing centers received in the last 24 hours indicate there will be no shortage of birds to meet the invasion of foreign fowls.

The weather has been distinctly favorable for the delicate young birds this year except in sections where the rainfall has been excessive. Feed supplies have been large and of excellent quality. Flocks of this year's birds in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee have passed the most precarious stages of their development in good shape.

They have their growth and from now until November 30 will put on weight.

QUALITY BETTER.

The quality of the Thanksgiving birds, grown in Curo and Temple, Texas, asserted today, will be better than ever before, as the lateness of Thanksgiving will give the birds an extra week of fattening. This will be of special benefit to northern growers, whose flocks have come on less rapidly than those of the south.

Minnesota birds, as usual, will be the best. The lateness of Thanksgiving, as large birds are at a premium on that holiday when also a preference is given to the Christmas, when individual households usually celebrate alone, the smaller southern and mid-western birds are at a premium.

In addition to this year's supply, figures compiled today show that there are nearly 2,500,000 pounds of turkey in storage throughout the country, as against an average for five years of 2,500,000 pounds. About 1,500,000 pounds are located in this district, and the bulk of stock represents birds bought by dealers last year at 40 to 45 cents a pound to retail at 50 to 55 cents, which the public declined to pay.

The movement of all dressed poultry to market throughout the country in the last two months have been the heaviest ever known, exceeding 1921 shipments by 50 per cent. Last week New York received 202,121 pounds of dressed poultry of various kinds and had on hand on Monday 10,211,414 pounds. Boston received 103,893 pounds and stocks totaled 1,647,163 the first of the week. Philadelphia was shipped 13,591 and had 1,252,421 pounds ready for sale, while Chicago added 102,415 pounds to its supply last week and had 5,021,897 pounds on hand.

Dealers in all these cities reported today that while prices have held up remarkably well under these shipments, a break in price might be expected any time a lowering of the holiday price levels for turkeys as well as other fowls.

The final and decisive factor in the turkey price, as in many other commodities, is the weather. More equipment and transportation. A railroad tie-up or crisis after November 1 would cause present stocks of poultry in storage to be depleted with three weeks more over, the best prices usually are obtained only for turkeys which arrive at their markets about a week before the holiday. If they arrive sooner, demand is not so great, and, if later, there is danger of a glutted market.

Taking these factors into consideration, a price of between 45 and 48 cents a pound for Thanksgiving birds will be indicated in many of the markets this year.

Consistent with W. C. Durant's policy of keeping his stockholders advised regarding the activities of the Durant interests, a bulletin is being prepared showing what has been accomplished in the matter of the Durant automobile business and the selling of the Durant products.

At that time it was stated that the capacity of the Durant plant amounted to 120,000 cars per year. In this bulletin he advises that the plants will be practically completed to their fullest capacity for the next 15 months, as orders for the Durant cars and trucks are being received for practically the next 15 months' production. Six of the Durant plants are now in production and the seventh, which is the largest plant, will be in production this month. There are very nearly 100 American manufacturers of automobiles and during July of this year only five Durant cars produced more cars than Durant.

The Durant Motors, Inc., enters the second year of its existence with a very substantial cash balance and a very small plant investment. The Durant automobile business, that it is doing and an exceptionally good prospect for the continuance of its profit making. CHURCHES TO OBSERVE RALLY DAY TOMORROW

Lutherans to Act on Union School Plan

Establishment of Indian College to Be Voted on at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Whether or not the Lutherans will join with the Church of England and others in the India Mission field to establish a Union Christian College is one of the questions to be decided at the Third Biennial Convention of the United Lutheran Church to be held in Buffalo beginning October 17. The Board of Foreign Missions strongly urges that co-operative work be established. The executive board of the church has refused to assume the responsibility.

The matter of the Union Christian College in India was proposed two years ago by the Church Missionary Society, a church of England, operating out of London. The plan is to have the missions of all denominations working in the Telugu area contribute personnel and money for the purpose of converting the people at Masulipatnam into a university which will teach Christianity to the Hindus disregarding denominational lines. The College Council of Noble College is to be enlarged and to be constituted as follows: Church Missionary Society, four representatives, two Christians from the staff, one representative from each mission, one expected by the Church Missionary Society that the move will be a temporary one until a first-grade Mission University can be established at some later date. Three of the denominational missions in India sent the plan to their boards at home recommending that it be accepted. As a special concession to the Lutherans the Church Missionary Society proposed the appointment of Rev. J. Roy Stock, a Lutheran missionary, as principal of Noble College to take effect at once. Since July he has acted in this capacity.

The attitude of the executive board of the United Lutheran Church is based upon the following statement:

"1. Although unconvinced we yield to the informed opinion of our Foreign Mission Board and missionaries in India, granting the request made.

"2. It is understood that the arrangement until the convention of the United Lutheran Church in October.

"3. We ask the question, why, if our Mission possesses an institution of learning in India, only one representative from our Mission is to be upon the College Council, whereas four are to be appointed by the Church Missionary Society?"

The report of the Board of Foreign Missions calls attention to the fact that "The Lutheran High School and College at Guntur, and the high schools at Madras and Bikaner, are to be continued as at present with the idea of fitting them later into the scheme as a whole, and that adequate provision is to be made by the representative missions for the spiritual care of college students in the United Institution. A dormitory for Lutheran students in charge of a Lutheran missionary in India is one of the conditions of our co-operation." The stand favoring the Union Institution, which has been taken by the Lutheran missionaries in India, is presented in a testimony of Dr. John Aberly, the president of the Council of the India Mission, who says: "Heretofore universities have been examining bodies only. Now residential universities are the order of the day. One of the first to be launched in the South is to be the Telugu University. What effect will this have on our Guntur College? It is equal to the task of raising $1,700,000 (Rs. 5,000,000) and furnishing the professors needed to make it a university with its own charter? That would be a great task. Or, if it cannot be done, it is a question of whether the Lutheran Missions unitedly do it? The very question suggests the answer, and that is that it must be done by the line of a United Institution. If it is to be done at all, it must be done in the only course open to Missions. So much is plain. Details only have to be worked out and it looks as though we might have to work them out at short notice."

Just what action will be taken by the one thousand or more delegates to the convention is not known. It is certain that differences of opinion about this co-operation proposal will be expressed, and will be fought out on the floor of the Buffalo convention. The biennial convention is the real governing body of the United Lutheran Church, and the vote of its delegates is final.

BIRTH OF SOULS TO BE SUBJECT FOR CHURCH CHOICES

Rev. Harold Govette, pastor of Claret Congregational church, is to preach tomorrow morning on "The Birth of Souls." In discussing this subject, Govette states that the purpose of God in organizing his church was to conserve its youth and to give birth to new souls by bringing them in touch with the gospel, so that through the influence of the Holy Spirit they might be born into the Kingdom of God.

Passion Play Worth World Trip, States Pastor Back From Oberammergau Trip

ANTON LANG, in his workshop at Oberammergau, where he is employed as a sculptor when not engaged in playing the leading role in the Passion Play. Below, one of the most gripping scenes of the play, "Christ Taking Leave of His Mother." MARTHA VEIT plays the part of Mary, the Mother of Christ.

Dr. Kloss of Plymouth Congregational Church Tells of Notable Presentation.

By DR. CHARLES L. KLOSS, Pastor Plymouth Congregational Church.

Oberammergau, a little village in the Bavarian highlands, has been the mecca of tourists for this past summer. A more cosmopolitan group than you will see gathered in any city of America, or the old world, flocked there from all corners of the world. They are attracted to this out-of-the-way place to see visualized the greatest tragedy of time by a group of devout and unique artists.

The Passion Play has been given since 1633 in fulfillment of a vow, as is well known. Up to 1910 it was given in the churchyard. In 1910 it was presented but 14 times during the season. Each decade has been worth a greater following, however, and a finer art. In 1910 it was given 87 times and was witnessed by 225,000 people, and the receipts were $425,000. This year the attendance will be very much greater, but the receipts less, because of the depression of the market. The best seats in the house sold for 100 marks, which in July meant less than 30 cents. In 1910 the same seats cost 10 marks, or $2.50.

DIVISION OF RECEIPTS. Ten years ago the receipts of the play were divided as follows: One-third to the community, one-third to the physical improvements of the theater, costumes and scenery and one-third to the players. In 1910 the receipts were divided as follows: $25 each. This year, despite the large attendance, the receipts will be much less and the players, for their six months of actual playing, will receive less than $100 each. This fact alone should dispose of any criticism of commercializing on the part of the people.

It is also a fact that some film companies of the department of the fabulous amounts for the film privileges, which were rejected. The cost of food and rooms, photos and postcards was less, correspondingly, than in other cities of Europe, which were visited.

The theater proper seats approximately 4,400. During the July performances there were from 2,000 to 2,500 standing besides at each performance.

The players for the principal parts were chosen in October of 1921. They were selected by a group of 22 of the leading citizens of Oberammergau, 14 of whom were members of the town council. It took two weeks of balloting to select the characters. There are over 900 in the cast, with 124 speaking parts, 50 in the orchestra and 45 in the chorus. All who took part were born in the village.

NO MAKE-UP USED. There is no make-up used in the presentation. The hair is natural and no cosmetics are used. The evidence of sincerity and devoutness and lack of self-consciousness is very much in evidence on the part of the players.

Each scene is introduced by a chorus, followed by a tableau forecasting the scene which is to follow. The tableaux are of extraordinary beauty and, for the most part, taken from incidents of the Old Testament.

on a new meaning—"Let not your hearts be troubled," etc.

PROFOUNDLY PATHETIC. The profoundly pathetic scenes, as for example, the physical agony of the cross, which consumes 15 minutes, and some of the features of the "Last Supper," could be shortened to good advantage. About the only criticism that appeared to be current among the spectators was that a contraction of some of the scenes and judicious cutting of the lines making the performance an hour less in the morning and cutting the afternoon portion of the performance a like amount would be an advantage and at the same time not detract from the spirit of the presentation.

The play would make an impression by its exquisite art, even though the subject were not so gripping. The wealth of color, the infinite variety of costume, without a single repetition, the setting of the whole, the landscape of the Judean hills, suggested by the hills back of Oberammergau, all are evidence of a guiding hand of a master artist.

George Lang, the director, is a graduate of the art school in Munich, and is a sculptor and a teacher in the wood carving school in Oberammergau.

The individual characters of the play stand out in great prominence. The most striking part is that of Judas, which was taken this year by Guido Mayr. He shares the greatest historic talent with the man who took the part of Pilate, Dr. Lang was only a substitute in this part, but developed a talent for the part that was quite noticeable.

WORTH WORLD TRIP. Interest, however, centers in the personality of Anton Lang, who took the part of Christ. He has long, wavy brown hair, blue eyes and finely chiseled features, a delicate, sensitive mouth, and gives you the impression of extraordinary gentleness. How true there is a strange intangible beauty of person and a dignity of bearing that the man is identified with his character.

The almost unanimous opinion of those who have seen the play is that it is worth a journey around the world to witness.

Again and again during the presentation the scenes become so gripping and intense, the impression is so vivid and stirring, that a quiet sob is heard almost in unison from the audience, tears stream down the cheeks unheeded. All leave the theater as if they had been in a holy place and recognize that their own lives hereafter should be sweeter, cleaner, more wholesome and dedicated to the service of Him who went about doing good.

Pastor On Retiring Given High Praise

The wide range of civic and social interests possessed by Rev. Herbert A. Jump, retiring pastor of the First Congregational church of Manchester, N. H., was indicated by a citizens' testimonial given him on the evening of his leaving Manchester for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he began on September 24 his pastorate over the First Congregational church. A book of appreciation was presented him containing forty letters from representative contributors who symbolized the manifold impressions he had made upon his community and state. Among the writers were a governor and an ex-governor, two United States senators, a member of Congress, the heads of many of the social service organizations in the city, the mayor, president of the chamber of commerce, president of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, leaders of fraternal organizations, officials in the labor organizations, a Greek Catholic priest, a Syrian missionary and various others.

Guild Will Give Church Fall Bazaar

Committees Making Elaborate Efforts for Annual Autumn Affair.

With the arrival of the fall comes the announcement from Old St. John's Episcopal church, of plans for the autumn and winter activities of the various church organizations. Chief amongst them being the annual autumn bazaar, which is to be held at St. John's guild hall October 18, 19 and 20.

The splendid results of last year's bazaar, both financially and socially have encouraged the various committees to even greater efforts this year. A splendid organization has been perfected and the committees in charge of the various departments are functioning in a manner which gives promise of results surpassing even those attained last year.

A comprehensive scheme of decoration has been adopted, and the scope of activities has been broadened by the addition of new departments which will add greatly to the novelty and variety of goods displayed, as well as the entertainment features.

WILL PUT ON FARCE. The program for the first evening, Wednesday, October 18, will consist of a farce comedy in two acts, "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone," to be presented by Mrs. John Barrett, Mrs. N. Nesbitt, Miss Bernice Lake and Mrs. W. A. Thursty; and a variety of musical and other specialties.

The plot of "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone" deals with the highly interesting and often equally ridiculous complications resulting from Mrs. Oakley's misinterpreted confidence in the intelligence and efficiency of her two maids—one of German, and the other of Irish, extraction.

On the second evening, J. C. R. MacDonald and his company of artists will present MacDonald's latest Chinatown sketch, "Ah Pong Wong," which portrays a thrilling episode in the life of a Chinese slave girl, which is to be produced under the direction of the author, who has long been a member of the "Chinatown detail" of the Oakland police department, is replete with the atmosphere and color and romance of Oakland's Oriental quarter, and the reputations of the producer and his artists give assurance of a really worthwhile performance.

CHILDREN GIVE PROGRAM.

On Friday evening, a children's program will be presented under the direction of Miss Flewelling. The three days' bazaar will then be brought to a close with a delightfully informal carnival, where-in enjoyment is to be provided for everybody, so long as they desire to remain.

One of the most enjoyable features of the bazaar for the St. John's parishioners, past and present, will be the annual home-coming day, to be celebrated Thursday, October 18. This is the day when the children of the church, in charge of Miss J. M. Hyde, will be a source of great pleasure to all who cherish fond memories of their association with Old St. John's.

Public notice is given that the St. John's church, in behalf of the whole parish, extended an invitation to the public to join with the parishioners of St. John's in the full enjoyment of the bazaar.

The various departments of the bazaar will be conducted by the following committees:

St. James Will Have New Plant

Church Arranged For Gothic Tower and All Modern Conveniences.

The St. James Presbyterian church, of which Rev. J. B. Donaldson is the pastor, has made arrangements for its new plant which is to be erected at Park Boulevard and Hampel streets.

The church is to have a Gothic tower and arrange on the latest architectural lines. The church is to be built on the east-plus plan, at an expense of not over $28,000, besides materials provided.

The Sunday school assembly room is to be forty by sixty feet, large enough for an official game of basketball, and other games, with other rooms for departments, as primary and intermediate. The main room can be divided into sections for junior classes.

The auditorium on the corner will have a gallery and choir loft, to seat between four and five hundred. Other features will be a ladies' parlor, with a marine view, kitchen, young people's hall, pastor's study and other conveniences, including a stage and picture booth.

It is hoped to have the St. James Hall ready by Thanksgiving for the Sunday school, and for a bazaar to be given by the Ladies' Aid, when the old site on Fourteenth avenue may be surrendered to new owners.

While the subscriptions and funds available provide for the first contract costs, several thousands more will be required for furnishings and other expenses. It is believed that these will be readily forthcoming.

The Sunday school boys are engaged in a race with the girls to get a mile of pennies to pay their subscription for the new building. Last Sunday, there were 225 present; and next Sunday, the girls plan to have 125 out next Sunday, and challenge the boys to do the same. Two hundred and fifty will be the limit of capacity in the present building.

J. W. J. the, of McCall and Wythe, is the architect, and the contractor is Thomas A. Cuthbertson.

Divine Science Church Pastor Returns Home

The work of the Divine Science church was carried on during the past summer by Miss Ruby Farnham and Miss Mary Morton, while the Rev. J. B. Elliott was attending the International New Thought Alliance Congress at Atlanta, Ga., to which she went as a delegate.

She has returned home after having spent a considerable time in Denver, Colorado, where she carried on the work of the Divine Science church during the vacation of the Rev. J. B. Elliott.

Miss Elliott stopped in Chicago and gave a report on the I. N. T. Congress at the Divine Science Center there, at the request of the Rev. J. B. Elliott, and she also stopped in Los Angeles and spoke at one of the Truth Centers there.

While in Los Angeles, Miss Elliott saw the "Pilgrimage Play," which was given at Hollywood, and she contemplates giving a lecture on it in the near future.

Miss Elliott is now District President of Northern California for the International New Thought Alliance and gave a report to the district meeting at the Bay District.

The Divine Science Assembly has been opened in San Francisco at 532 George street, Room 1, Lincoln Building, the dedication taking place Monday evening.

The California College of Divine Science, at 45 Jerome avenue, Piedmont, is looking forward to a fall and winter in the College work. Miss Ruby Farnham begins a class in the Fundamentals of Divine Science on Tuesday evening at the Metaphysical Library, Room 408 Central Bank Building, Oakland, and also an evening class at the College Home at 45 Jerome avenue on Thursday evenings, October 12.

The Truth and Health class of the Divine Science church, led by Miss Elliott, meets every Tuesday at 10:30 at the Metaphysical Library.

The regular Sunday morning service of the Divine Science church is held at the Metaphysical Library at 11:30.

Theosophical Society Will Hear Leader

Eugene W. Munson, National Lecturer of the Theosophical Society, will lecture tomorrow night before the Oakland Lodge of the Theosophical Society, at 319 Pacific Building, on "Spiritual Life for the World."

Mr. Munson states that this message is to men and women who are doing the work of the world; that spiritual life is not incompatible with business and professional life, but that these in themselves constitute a path of progress and are extremely important adjuncts to spiritual development.

"An example of this," stated Munson, "is the Rotary Club, which is probably one of the most spiritualizing forces in America today; it is revolutionizing business methods and ideals at a tremendous rate, inaugurating practices and principles into the methods of ordinary commerce that would have been deemed impossible a decade ago."

"Practical Theosophy," will be the topic of Munson's Monday evening address.

Creeds Forgotten in Formation of Citizens' League

NORMAN F. TURNER, president, and LEON C. FRANCIS, first vice-president, of the Citizens' League, recently organized for the purpose of law enforcement.

1000 Banded Together to Eliminate Evildoing of Law Enforcement.

A chance meeting between a Presbyterian, a Jew and a Christian Scientist, and their discussion of the need of a united movement among Protestant people to work for better citizens and measures in politics, resulted in the formation of the Citizens' League in May, 1922.

One of the members carried the idea to the Men's Bible class of the Brooklyn Presbyterian church, of which he was the president. A plan was outlined and invitations sent to every church east from Lake Marquette to the city limits. Many of the churches responded.

The present membership of approximately 1000 people now includes members from many of the downtown churches and some from Berkeley.

The purpose of the organization is to give the law its "divine" purpose shall be the uniting of God-loving and law-loving citizens of Oakland for the intelligent and efficient aid of all righteous and beneficent influences in our governmental and social life and the elimination of the enemies of law enforcement.

The league meets every Thursday evening at the Brooklyn Presbyterian church, where timely subjects are discussed by prominent and well known speakers. From now until the time for the November election the various amendments and acts attached to the ballot to the vote of the people will be the subjects for discussion.

The organization is supported by free will offerings and has no dues. It is non-sectarian, non-partisan and interdenominational.

The sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church, for "Go to Church Sunday," tomorrow will be "The Mission of the Church," and "A City Without a Church." Dr. John Stephens, the pastor will deliver both sermons, and the service tomorrow will mark the beginning of the seventh year of his pastorate in this church. The musical portion of the service will be rendered by the choir under the direction of Jessie Beatty, Roland organist, with the following soloists: Florence Sewall, "and; Elise Santa Crane, "and; Herbert P. Mee, tenor, and; Dadd, baritone.

On Sunday October 8, Bishop Charles Edward Locke, one of the best known preachers of America, for many years pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Los Angeles, will preach at the morning service in this church.

A Life Service Conference is to be held in the First church from Friday to Sunday, October 20-22. Among the speakers will be, President Tully C. Knowles, Dr. C. M. McConnell and Dr. W. E. H. Gratz of Chicago. It is expected that 250 young people from various parts of Northern California will be in attendance.

Missionaries when first sent to the field must take with them beds, chairs and kitchen utensils. If they don't they must borrow such necessities from other missionaries.

Revival to Be Held in Fruitvale

Nightly Meetings for Week Start at Christian Church Tomorrow Evening.

A series of evangelical meetings to continue throughout the week, with nightly meetings, will be started at the Fruitvale Christian church tomorrow by Rev. Kelly O'Neill, the pastor. This meeting will be in harmony with the simultaneous evangelistic campaign of the Christian churches of California whereby every Christian church in the state is to hold an evangelistic meeting on October 8 and with the larger plan for the whole country whereby every church in America is to hold such a meeting during the next six months. One purpose of this nation-wide plan is to re-enlist every member of the church who has, by removal from one city to another, dropped out of active church work. Each church is to hunt up such people in its own community and urge them to become active in the local work.

Another feature of the campaign at the Fruitvale church is the raising of money to pay off a mortgage on the church property. Cash in for this purpose to the amount of $3,750 is to be brought in on October 1. Most of this has been pledged already and the remainder is to be in sight. This will make a total of $5,500 in debts which this church will have paid off during the past six months.

Immediately after the payment of this mortgage, according to Rev. O'Neill, the church will begin the erection of a new church auditorium.

Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Robinson have just closed a series of travel and lecture lectures in the church in preparation for this campaign and have made a large contribution to the work.

The subjects of Rev. O'Neill at the services tomorrow will be "Brethren, Let Us Forward" at the morning service and "The Greatest Question a Man Ever Faced" at the evening service. Other subjects to be considered during the week will be "The Father of the Gospel," "The Essential Church," "The Plan of Redemption," "The Source of Authority in Religion" and "How Good Must a Man Be to Be Saved Without Christ?"

'Go to Church' Sunday Even To Be Observed

Special Sermons, Music and Services to Be Held to Greet Visitors.

"Go to Church Sunday" will be observed tomorrow with appropriate sermons and music, morning and evening at the First Presbyterian church. Every unattached person in the city has been invited to the services and every member has been urged to bring a friend.

The Temple choir of fifty voices has arranged a special "Go to Church" program. At the evening service Dr. Frank M. Silex, the pastor, will preach on the subject, "Victorious Church-Goers." In this sermon he proposes to set forth that a devout church goes not only to the church, but gets the inspiration that prevents him from being a defeatist.

Questions to be answered during the sermon include: "Why do people say there is no use in going to church? Why do they object that the church is filled up with hypocrites? Why do many find substitutes for church going? Will Sunday amusements and outings take the place of the church? Is church going the victory over worry, homesickness, handicaps and besetting sins?"

In discussing this sermon, Dr. Silex stated: "I want to preach a sermon in which I will disillusion the popular mind of wrong notions concerning the church. I believe in the church. It is the only divine institution in the world. Every antagonist of the church should be disarmed. What would be the fate of law and order if it were not for the church? Where would the sorrowing and the sick find comfort? I believe in the message of the church for the life of the men and women of this city, and hope that lives will be born in this service."

Pastor to Begin Seventh Year in M. E. Church

The sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church, for "Go to Church Sunday," tomorrow will be "The Mission of the Church," and "A City Without a Church." Dr. John Stephens, the pastor will deliver both sermons, and the service tomorrow will mark the beginning of the seventh year of his pastorate in this church. The musical portion of the service will be rendered by the choir under the direction of Jessie Beatty, Roland organist, with the following soloists: Florence Sewall, "and; Elise Santa Crane, "and; Herbert P. On Sunday October 8, Bishop Charles Edward Locke, one of the best known preachers of America, for many years pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Los Angeles, will preach at the morning service in this church.

A Life Service Conference is to be held in the First church from Friday to Sunday, October 20-22. Among the speakers will be, President Tully C. Knowles, Dr. C. M. McConnell and Dr. W. E. H. Gratz of Chicago. It is expected that 250 young people from various parts of Northern California will be in attendance.

Missionaries when first sent to the field must take with them beds, chairs and kitchen utensils. If they don't they must borrow such necessities from other missionaries.

'Passion Play' Lecture to Be Given at Church

The First Congregational church is making arrangements for an attractive and helpful program to be given at the church tomorrow. This being conference week, both pastors will be away, but Dr. F. J. Van Horn, will return for the morning service, preaching on "Winning But How?"

"The Passion Play," will be given by Rev. W. A. Wilkinson. The play as given in Oberammergau is to be shown in pictures, with historical and personal explanation. The First church choir will be heard throughout the day.

The church school at its session in the morning will welcome A. C. Jensen, a former superintendent.

On Wednesday evening Miss Rosalind Ketchum, a member of the faculty of Mills college, will speak on "Certain Impressions of Italy." Miss Ketchum, visited that country this summer.

Careless Churchmen Reminded

Pastor of Old St. John's Explains His "Get-Together" Movement.

As a means of reminding careless churchmen of their duty to the church and of the great benefits they are missing by not attending church services regularly, the present "go to church" movement is being carried out by the Rev. Father John Barrett, rector of Old St. John's Episcopal Church.

"There are many men," said Rev. Barrett, "who go to church only on such days as Christmas and Easter. They are not religious people; they have not lost all their religious faith; they still consider themselves churchmen; but they have grown careless and they stay away from church Sunday after Sunday. They have been wavering in their support of the house of God. They need a reminder.

"The 'go to church' Sunday was promoted for the purpose of arousing enthusiasm among the religious people who have grown careless. "Real religion ordinarily comes to the average man through attendance at the church. The sanctuary is God's power house of religion, morality and philanthropy. Here, week after week, one is recharged with the strength of moral purpose and exalted feeling. Here, as nowhere else, one can read God's power, presence and compassion. Here, one finds a new motive for life and secures added courage for the battle of life during the coming week.

"Neglect of the church by its members weakens the power of this institution, discourages the stranger, and disheartens the minister; while faithful church attendance is a most encouraging and constructive element in the upbuilding and functioning of the organization.

"Go to church next Sunday. You will feel better for it, and so will all the folks at home."

ST. JOHN'S SERVICES.

The services of St. John's Church tomorrow will be especially dedicated to the "strangers within our gates" and to the many wanderers from the church fold who are expected to return and renew their allegiance on this great annual rally day.

There will be a low mass at 8 o'clock, high mass and sermon at 11, and choral vespers and an address at 7:45 p.

A program of music will be rendered at the 11 o'clock service by a large chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. William H. Root, A. A. G. O., and Rev. Barrett will speak at both morning and evening services on subjects appropriate to the day.

CHURCH SCHOOL RALLY.

The St. John's Church School, under the leadership of Ralph Parkinson, superintendent, will hold enrollment exercises at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The parents and friends of the children have been invited, and an interesting program of songs and games.

Organization Consists of Seventy-five Business Girls Who Meet Every Tuesday Evening

An active campaign is being instituted by the Oakland Corner Club for funds to erect a new club building for the organization. An appreciable amount has already been obtained for the new building. An advisory board of prominent business men is working with the club, assisting them in the plans for the new clubhouse. This board includes Charles H. Truman, W. N. Jenkins, N. V. Clark, Dr. R. T. Sutherland, A. C. Van Deren, E. J. Clinton and A. Campbell.

The club was recently organized and now consists of 75 business girls who meet every Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the clubhouse of the Business and Professional Women's Club at 1741 Broadway.

After a supper served by the women of the several Protestant churches they sing and have a helpful talk by their club mother, Mrs. E. J. Clinton.

This Corner Club was organized by Mrs. Frances L. Neth of Los Angeles in January, 1921, and it is an outgrowth of the same women's meetings held in Oakland at that time. The meetings were first held in the First Baptist church, and later in the First Congregational church.

The Odd Fellows' Temple, and now in the present clubhouse.

This club is the fourth of the kind which Mrs. Neth organized, the first one being in Vancouver in 1917, Houston, Tex., Oakland, Berkeley, Glendale and Los Angeles following. Sometime during the fall one will be opened in San Francisco.

From the time of its organization Mrs. Clarice Melbin has been president, and Mrs. E. J. Clinton, club mother. Miss Lois Kady is vice-president, and Miss Norine Knight, secretary.

The business of the club is done through the executive committee, of which Mrs. Herbert T. Eaton is president; Miss A. Harris, vice-president, and Miss Belle Butler, treasurer.

M. Emile Coue's Idea Is Subject

Rev. Clarence Reed Will Preach on Gospel of Auto Suggestion.

M. Emile Coue's Gospel of Auto-Suggestion will be the subject of the sermon at the First Unitarian church tomorrow morning by Rev. Clarence Reed, the pastor. In speaking of the reasons for selecting this sermon topic, Rev. Reed stated: "The 'Living Age' in commenting upon the interest in the addresses and clinic of M. Coue during his recent visit to England, says he is the most talked of man in London. Lord Curzon, the foreign minister of Great Britain, states that he was recently cured of a serious ailment in ten days by the methods of M. Coue, after all other treatments had failed.

"During the past two months, an edition after edition has been exhausted of M. Coue's little book, 'Self Mastery Through Conscious Auto-suggestion,' in which he explains in simple and clear language his theory and method of auto-suggestion.

"This great French psychologist has had a clinic at Nancy, France, for twenty years, and during that time many persons have been restored to health through the use of conscious auto-suggestion. There is nothing mysterious, supernatural and occult in his method. He does not claim to have cured a single person. They cure themselves."

Rev. Reed states that he will speak of the value of the method of M. Coue not only in the treatment of physical diseases, but also in the development of moral character.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the course of addresses that Rev. Reed is giving in Wendell hall of the church. The subject tomorrow evening at 8, will be "The Historical Jesus and the Mythical Christ." His purpose in these addresses, according to Rev. Reed, is to state the authentic facts in regard to the life and teachings of Jesus. At the close of his address, within the limit of the time, he will answer any written question on the Bible in the light of modern biblical research.

The Laymen's League of the church will have a debate at its meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the reading room of the church on the "California Water and Power Act." The arguments for the act will be given by Professor S. E. Coleman, and the argument against the act by V. H. Chantler. There will also be a discussion of the Sample Act by E. G. Tardy.

"The Beginning of Municipal Government in the United States" will be the subject of the lecture by Professor William S. Morgan, at the meeting of the adult class of the church school tomorrow morning.

Art's Appeal in Beauty

Has Value to Religion

By REV. CLARENCE REED.

Great art is the realization of the beautiful. It has always been the product of human need, and has made a universal appeal, and has been vitally related to life. A work of art is a transcript of some phase of life or nature in the form of the beautiful. Art has value to religion through man coming into fellowship with God by the appreciation of the beautiful, and by helping to establish the universal brotherhood of man by inspiring men to endeavor to universalize the beautiful in all the relations of life.

Art is closely related to religion on account of its strong appeal to the imagination. The most divine faculty of man is the creative imagination. The Sphinx, the Parthenon, the Hermes of Praxiteles, Leonardo da Vinci's "The Last Supper," and Michael Angelo's fresco on the ceiling of the Sistine chapel were products of the creative imagination.

The message of religion that love is the greatest thing in the world, is ordinarily expressed in words, does not make as strong an appeal as when embodied in the painting by George Frederick Watts "Love Triumphant" in which love is seen victorious over death and time. Words are so powerless to interpret the meaning of death. The sculpture of Daniel C. French of "Death Slaying the Hand of the Sinner" makes death seem to be only an incident in life, being one of God's beautiful servants who leads our beloved friends to a fair land.

SIGNIFICANCE OF BODY.

The spiritual significance of the human body revealed in painting and sculpture. The statue of Venus de Milo is a glorification of the sacredness of the body of woman as the most holy temple consecrated to the divine. Rodin expressed this idea in his sculpture of John the Baptist. His thin, gaunt body is transfigured with the wonderful message that fills his soul. He proclaims his message as he walks. He is in haste to tell mankind of the coming of the great prophet.

The supreme messages of Christianity have been expressed in painting, sculpture, music and architecture better than in the creeds. As religion becomes more and more spiritual in character it will speak to mankind through the fine arts. The coming age is to be the age of beauty. Then the beautiful will be considered as having supreme worth, while the vices and disorders of life will be hated as forms of ugliness.

A church should be a building of prayer of aspiration and a hymn of praise to God. The doorway and the vestibule should be so beautiful that men will wish to enter in order to worship the God of truth, goodness and the beautiful. In place of the bare, cold, white or neutral tinted walls of the Protestant churches of the past, we wish to see their walls decorated with frescoes like those of Pissarro, Chavannes, Sargent and Abbey. We desire to have the churches adorned with such works of sculpture as French's "The Genius of Creation," Meunier's "The Prodigal Son," and Rodin's "The Man of the Bronze Age." Once around the church is a cemetery. The church is the floor were graves. Our hope is to surround the church with a garden as beautiful as the temple garden of Kinkakuji at Kyoto in Japan.

PURPOSE OF ART.

The supreme purpose of art is to realize the highest possible degree of the beautiful. The joy that men feel in the presence of the supremely beautiful is akin to reverence. The temple of God may best be entered through the gate of beauty. All great art has about it the halo of the beautiful. Placards in the Symposium, "If man has eyes to see the true beauty, he becomes the friend of God and immortal." The beautiful is not simply a physical pleasure to the eye or ear, but it is something sacred, being in the nature of a revelation of God. If men appreciated the beautiful that is around them, they would be able to live from day to day in the conscious presence of the divine. The knowledge of God thus becomes a certainty, being more real than anything else in life.

Whether the art that a people love is expressed in color, form or sound is of minor importance, but that it shall give to mankind joy and encourage them to work for the betterment of society is of supreme importance. A real work of art is a magnet drawing all who love it toward the ideal. The supreme goal of art and religion is that every home should be a sanctuary of beauty, every factory, office and schoolroom a shrine of beauty, and every city a cathedral of beauty.

GOLDEN GATE CHURCH CALLS FOR PASTOR

At the annual meeting of the Golden Gate Baptist church, held last week, a call was extended to Rev. William Fuller to the pastorate. Rev. Fuller has been serving as supply pastor for the past four months, and is now taking up the work of pastor permanently.

An aggressive campaign has been instituted at the church in a determination to enlist in active service the largest possible percentage of the membership. The promotional program suggested to the churches by the Northern Baptist convention is to shape in large measure the activities of the coming year. The Sunday school will take up the co-operative plan recommended by the American Baptist Publication Society for "Bigger and Better Baptist Sunday Schools."

Emphasis is to be given to evangelism during the coming church year. The pastor states that he will hold steadily before the people the Scriptural teaching of the deity of Christ, and that there is no disposition in the church to give place to what is termed as new thought, or destructive criticism and extreme liberalism.

The record of Dr. Breedon's ministry in several of the largest Christian churches in the West, bespeaks for this people a time of rare development and edification and the public is earnestly invited to enjoy his scholarly addresses with us. Good music may be anticipated at each service.

The success of Emile Coue in the treatment of diseases by autosuggestion is the sensation of Europe. Recently Lord Curzon claims to have been cured by this method. It is said that all England is repeating the formula of Coue, "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better." Since the publication of a translation of Coue's book, Self Mastery Through Conscious Autosuggestion, in New York on July 15, it has been the book of the hour in America.

Funeral of Jackson Miners.

The Rev. Edwin F. Brown, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Jackson, made the following very appropriate and beautiful remarks at the funeral of the forty-six victims of the Argonaut mine disaster: "It is fitting that we should upon this occasion give emphasis to the value put upon human life and to extol those noble qualities that have been so conspicuous in the work of rescue. Never can we say that life is held cheaply when we have such a demonstration as this. All that was humanly possible has been done to bring these men out alive."

Human sympathy, however imperfect it may be, has its comforting influences in the hour of bereavement, and long, long after we have forgotten some of the distressing features of this calamity we will remember how the world loved us and how it wept with us, and how in various ways it made us know we were not alone in our affliction."—California Christian Advocate.

Christian Work for Orientals.

The Oriental Missions Council of the Pacific Coast has issued a directory of statistics of Christian work done for Japanese, Chinese, Koreans and Hindus on the coast and in the intermountain districts. It reveals the fact that in the past twenty years the Chinese have decreased from 89,863 to 61,630; and the Japanese have increased from 24,226 to 111,019, of which 71,552 are in California. The number of Hindus in 1920 were 2507 and of Koreans 1224.

Among the Chinese there is a total church membership of 3072, and among the Japanese 5390. Sixteen mission boards have expended annually for Chinese work, $149,352, of which the Chinese raised about 30 per cent. Eighteen mission boards have expended annually for work among the Japanese $236,130, of which the Japanese have raised among themselves, $119,173, something more than 50 per cent. The Pacific.

Other bequests include $10,000 to the Foreign Board, $20,000 to the Home Board, $20,000 to Brick church, $100,000 to the International Y. M. C. A. for its permanent endowment fund, $100,000 to Yale University, $50,000 each to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Natural History Museum and the New York public library; $10,000 to the trustees of Robert College of Constantinople for the endowment fund, $10,000 to the Yale work at Changsha, China; $5000 to the Travelers Aid society; and a varying amount to Episcopal and denominational institutions.—The Continent.

Many Booths to Display Handiwork of Women Members

Extensive plans are being made by the Ladies' Aid of the Trinity Lutheran church for a church bazaar which is to be held in Jenny Lind Hall, 2229 Telegraph avenue, October 13 and 14, both afternoon and evening.

There will be a large number of booths including fancy work booths, displaying the handiwork of the ladies, as well as delicatessen and grocery booths and many others.

Lunch will be served throughout both afternoons and evenings, and at 8 o'clock each night a program will be presented. The Young People's Society and Sunday school of the church will have their own special booths.

Printed Bible has Interesting History.

No book in the history of printing has approached the sales of the Bible, and there is perhaps no figure in connection with that history more striking than Luther's Wittenberg printer who accomplished the marvelous feat. It was just 400 years ago last month, September 21, 1522, that the New Testament was translated by Martin Luther and published.

Back in those days of hand presses the German publisher on the original Martin Luther translation from the Greek sold 100,000 copies of the Bible in forty years. One of the first full copies came off the clumey press in 1534, and the Wittenberg bookmaker had completed and sold the first 100,000 of the big books. The original "Wittenberg Bible" was printed on several hundred pages half the size of the newspaper page of today.

Church Plans For Weekday School Classes

Religious Study to Be Extended as Result of Movement Over U. S.

One of the most significant movements in the history of the Protestant church is now attracting wide attention on the part of Christians and educators everywhere. It is the week-day religious education.

While the work has been carried on for only a few years, there are now between 600 and 700 such schools, with a total body of over 50,000 in the United States.

The First Methodist Episcopal church of Oakland, realizing the far-reaching significance of this school movement, is arranging plans to inaugurate such a school this year.

At the beginning of the local school three classes are to be held: One for junior high school students, another for senior high school students and the third for women. The first two classes will, for the present, be held after public school hours once a week. The time for the class for women will be determined by the class after a preliminary meeting has been held.

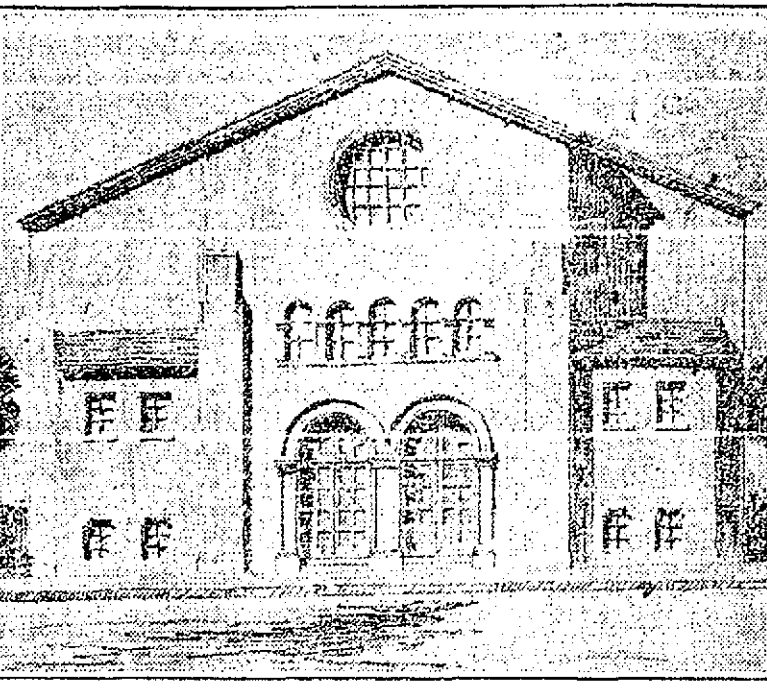

It is planned that the standard of work in these classes shall be as high as that maintained in the public schools or colleges. Text books of the highest standard are to be used. The faculty of the school will consist of Dr. John Stephens, Rev. Lloyd B. Taber and Miss Cecilia Cheney.

Rector Will Outline General Convention

The general convention of the Episcopal church, recently held at Portland, will be outlined at the St. Philip's Episcopal church tomorrow evening by Rev. Frank H. Church, who attended the convention.

The ladies of the guild of the church are holding all day sessions in preparation for the bazaar which is to be held by the guild in November.

Series of Revivals Soon To Mark New Church Home

New edifice of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which is nearing completion and is to be dedicated in November.

Growth of Christian and Missionary Alliance Brings Larger Quarters

The new church building of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which is now being constructed on Thirty-third street near Telegraph avenue is rapidly nearing completion. It is expected that the building will be dedicated on Sunday, November 5. Rev. Paul Rader of Chicago, recent pastor of the Moody church and now president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will officiate at the dedication and then hold a series of evangelistic meetings immediately following.

Rev. Rader is enroute on his second missionary trip to the Orient. He is a man of international reputation as an evangelist and world-wide missionary.

The new church of the Alliance was rendered necessary because its present quarters on Twenty-second street are too small. The growth of the church has been so rapid that the building is packed to its capacity every Sunday. An attractive feature of the Alliance services is the Sunday evening meeting. This service is composed mostly of impromptu singing of old familiar gospel choruses followed by short testimonies. The pastor, Rev. H. H. Moody, gives a short message on some timely subject, after which an invitation is given to those who desire to yield their lives to God to go into the inquiry room. Each Sunday evening a number of people avail themselves of this offer.

A new department of the church work is the tract league. This is an organization of young people who are banded together for the purpose of distributing gospel tracts on the streets and elsewhere. Part of the work of the league is to visit the hospitals and blind asylums and read to the "shut-ins." They also do work among those confined in the jails.

The church is finding that its open air services are a great help in keeping the revival fires burning. One of these meetings is held Saturday evenings on the corner of Eleventh and Broadway. Another open air meeting is held Sunday evening on the corner of Twentieth and San Pablo just previous to the evening evangelistic service.

Cleric Raps Excuses of Absentees

The reasons for not attending church are many and varied, though as a rule contradictory and not of any consequence according to Dr. J. M. Garst, pastor of the Twenty-third Avenue Baptist church, who has arranged a list of the excuses which he has heard from various sources during his years as a minister.

The first five reasons were propounded by one man while the others came from various sources. These reasons included:

1. The empty pews depress me.
2. I can't sit for an hour or more in a crowded building without suffocation.
3. The average church service is stupid and dull. Last week I did go to a crowded theater and sat spell bound for three hours.
4. On Sunday morning I take for a run my dog which has been chained all week. He has no soul and so does not care for church.
5. I am a baseball fan, and a Sunday morning church service is poor preparation for a ball game.

Excuses from other sources follow:

1. Too deaf to hear the sermon though he goes to political speaking.
2. Too lame to walk up the steps (she climbs two flights of stairs to her lodge).
3. Can't get the family up to breakfast (on bargain day down town she gets them up).
4. Clothing too shabby (but not to go anywhere else).
5. Always have company on Sunday.
6. Can't stand the draft from open windows.
7. Can't breathe in the close air.
8. Children too young to leave (though the church has a nursery service).
9. Go to the doctor on Sunday.
10. Can't get home in time to get a warm dinner.
11. No one in the congregation notices me (though I hurry out and am not very sociable myself).
12. Don't like the preacher's delivery.
13. See so many hypocrites.
14. Minister preached right at me.
15. Minister never looks at us when preaching.
16. The church is only for the rich.
17. Can be just as good Christian at home.
18. Minister passed me and did not speak (though he might not have seen me). I saw him but of course did not speak.

"Go to church Sunday" will be observed tomorrow at the Twenty-third Avenue Baptist church, when special features will be added to the services setting forth the advantages of a Christian life. "Roosevelt's Reasons for Going to Church" will be distributed in printed form with a number of other good articles on the subject.

Dr. Garst will preach at the morning service of Sunday, Oct. 8, at the evening service on "Putting on Christ." There will be special music by the choir and the church will be specially decorated by Miss Ann Stewart. The doors of the Sunday school will be open.

Lutherans to Lay Cornerstone of $12,000 Church

THE cornerstone of the new edifice of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church is to be laid with appropriate ceremonies tomorrow afternoon at Fifth-fifth avenue and Elderly street. Among those who will take active parts in the ceremony are: Rev. H. Wiemken, the pastor of the church, Rev. C. H. Hiller, pastor of the First Lutheran church of Oakland, Rev. Henry Feix of the St. Mark's Lutheran church of San Francisco, Rev. H. Gehrke of the St. Matthews Lutheran church of San Francisco and Dr. O. Gruver.

The new edifice is to be constructed at a cost of $12,000. Dan Kopf is the contractor and Philip Schwerdt is the architect.

Special Music Given At Evening Service

Special musical programs are among the features of the evening services at the First Swedish Baptist church.

The musical program for tomorrow evening will include organ selections by Miss Lillian Bergquist; vocal solo, Lindgren; a number of selections by the choir; vocal duet, E. V. Swedberg and R. Lundgren.

Rev. John Friberg, the pastor, will speak at this service on "What the Church Means for a People." The sermon topic in the morning will be "The Fountain and the Stream of Life."

There are 600 Christian churches in Japan and 70,000 Buddhist temples.

opened at 9:45 a. m. for special reception pictures.

Tomorrow is to be known as "Home Coming Sunday," in the Eight Week Attendance Campaign which is being conducted at the church.

Judge E. C. Robinson of the juvenile court will speak on "Moral and Religious Education" at the Sunday School Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:45. There will be special music and the Sunday school will be in attendance in a body as well as many others.

Dr. and Mrs. Garst will entertain in church choir at their home on Thursday evening, Oct. 5. Friday evening Dr. Garst will address a young people's convention in Santa Rosa.

Naval Training Men Religious, Chaplain Shows

Sunday Services Well Attended Though Compulsory at Only One of Six.

Increased interest is being shown in religion by the men in the navy, according to Chaplain W. R. Hall, who is the station chaplain at the Naval Training Station on Goat Island. In outlining the plan followed at the station in carrying on the religious work, Chaplain Hall stated:

"When a man comes to the training station, which is the first place he goes when he enlists in the navy, one of the first persons to see him is the chaplain. There is a personal heart to heart talk, and the new recruit is made to feel that the chaplain is deeply interested in him. Letters are written home to the parents of the man and in a great many cases to the pastor of the man, if he belonged to a church before he left home. Religious statistics are taken, which includes the man's denominational preference, his statement as to whether he is a member of a church or not, and any other interesting information about religious matters. When the man has finished his training and is sent to sea all this information is forwarded to the chaplain of the ship to which he has gone. Emphasis is placed upon personal religious work. Men are urged to make decisions for the Christian life. Men are constantly being taken to churches in the bay region where they are baptized, or where they join by letter from their home church. The Young People's Society of the bay region are co-operating to a great extent with the religious work by sending delegations of young people to the training station for their Sunday evening religious services.

"Six services are held every Sunday. Church attendance at one average."

RABBIS CONDUCT EVENING FEAST OF TABERNACLES

The Feast of Tabernacles, which in Hebrew bears the title Succoth, meaning booths, was observed by the local congregations yesterday evening and the service is being continued today. The feast will also be observed on next Saturday, when the Feast of Concluding the Tabernacles will be held. Religious services are held on the first and last days in Reform congregations, while Orthodox congregations observe the first two days and the last two days as a holy convocation. The intervening days of the festive cycle are semi-religious and are so observed among the Orthodox. Special services were held last night at Temple Sinai by Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, and will be continued today. The Feast of Concluding the Tabernacles will also be observed at Temple Sinai with special services next Friday and Saturday.

A Sunday school missionary in New Mexico in one community recently found only two professing Christians. Some of the young people there have never been in a Sunday school or heard a sermon. One woman said that she had not had a chance to hear a sermon in seven years.

Service during the day is compulsory. Yet the attendance at the other services is excellent. On the average, with the present number of men under training, the attendance for the six services during the one day is not less than 1000.

"Technically, the station chaplain is a librarian, but the work is so large that a civilian librarian, Miss Daisy Furscott, has been put in charge. Miss Furscott is specially trained in library work and upon her devolves the buying, the cataloging, and the issuing of the books. Approximately 4000 books are taken out every week from the station. Approximately 3000 men are at the training station at the present time. The number varies, of course, but that is a pretty fair average."

Special Speakers To Occupy First Baptist Pulpit

Special speakers will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church at both services tomorrow. In the morning at 11 o'clock Rev. T. Edwin Brown, D. D., retired from active service and who was at one time pastor of the oldest Baptist church in America at Providence, R. I., and also pastor of the famous Memorial Baptist church of Philadelphia, will be the speaker. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hoyt, on Fairmount avenue, of this city.

Following the sermon there will be a "Baby Dedication service," in which the pastor, Dr. John Snape, will offer a prayer of dedication for some little ones present. In the evening Colonel Dan Morgan, U. S. Army, commander in France of "The Battalion of Death," (First Battalion, 358 Infantry, 90th Division, A. E. F.), will deliver an address. Preceding his address Miss Dorothy Dukes, of Berkeley, will play "Gavotte" by Tupper. The principle event of the week's activities is the meeting of the Roger Williams league on Tuesday

ANSWERED PRAYER

My 6-year-old son, Mulvey, was suffering from violent palpitation and leakage of the heart. It was infernal for the doctor
to breathe or sleep, and he was unable to do anything for
him. Since last October (1921) I have taken him to three different doctors, none of whom were able to help him. In the last, one night he prayed earnestly to God to direct us to a doctor. The next morning we happened to pick up an old piece of newspaper
in which we read that the FONG WAH SPECIALIST had effected a remarkable cure in a case
of heart trouble.
It seemed to us
that this was our prayer and we lost
no time in seeing him. The very first package of herbs
gave him relief, and after having taken five weeks of treatment, Mulvey breathes without difficulty, sleeps
well, and runs and plays as the other boys.

OAKLAND C. OF C.
PARTY CONCLUDES
TOUR OF VALLEYSacramento Opens Arms to Excursionists on Last Stop of Travels.

By E. VAN LIER RIBBINK.

Sacramento, heart of California, and the last stop in the itinerary of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce Sacramento Valley excursionists, lived up to its reputation for hospitality toward the stranger within its gates yesterday.

Our special train having arrived around the noon hour, we formed into line for our final and most gorgeous parade, led by "Orub," the donkey mascot, which has contributed so much to the gaiety throughout the entire trip.

On arrival at the splendid new building owned and occupied by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, the Eastbay visitors were entertained at luncheon. Addressed were made by Mitchell Nathan, president of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce; Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, William H. Mayhew of Oakland and by Charles W. Frazer, president of the Sacramento Retail Merchants' Association, and by Carl Lamus of the good roads committee of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. President Nathan said in part: "It is most commendable on the part of these Oakland business men to take time to promote the interests of greater California. If this spirit prevails our efforts will redound to the benefit not only of the Sacramento valley but of the entire state. Sacramento is the fourth city of California at present, and it is our ambition to make it the third. This city is the heart of California, and we give it into your keeping during the length of your stay."

CAPITAL WINS TRIBUTE.

Joseph R. Knowland spoke of Sacramento's far-famed hospitality and of its peculiar fitness to be the capital of the state. He said: "I for one have never desired to see the capital of California moved from the heart of California." The speaker emphasized Sacramento's great place in history, and spoke of the discerning and perspicacious spirit which had persuaded General Sutter in building a fort and city at this commanding locality on the Sacramento river. The speaker also declared that a vote of thanks from the entire state is due Sacramento for the splendid advertisement conferred upon all California by the recent '49 Exposition at Sacramento. The advertising value of this enterprise, he declared, was invaluable and could not be defined in terms of finance, and its result was to advocate the construction of a highway into the historical mining region of California, where gold was first discovered and mined, in order to bring tourists to one of the most interesting and beautiful regions of the country. In behalf of the visitors from Oakland, he assured the people of Sacramento that the "Day of Awakening" had come and that Oakland stands ready to co-operate to the fullest extent with the people of the great Sacramento valley.

DEVELOPMENT RECOUNTED.

Charles W. Frazer, president of the Retail Merchants' Association of Sacramento, spoke of the tremendous industrial development which has taken place in recent years in Oakland and the Eastbay region. He said: "The Oakland of today is a city of the future, where the merchants of the interior cities can buy whatever they need. It is becoming our great outlet and shipping point, as well as the market in which we buy."

Carl Lamus of the good roads committee of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the need for a continuous highway from Sacramento to Oakland, a short-cut without ferries, requiring the construction of a bridge across the San Joaquin river. In this matter Oakland and Sacramento should co-operate, the speaker said.

The following were members of the Sacramento reception committee: E. H. Traxler, F. E. Conner, president Sacramento Lumber Co.; Alec Kaiser, Harry Maddox, Royal Miller, Charles Frazer, S. J. Richards, Edwin J. Bedell, A. S. Dudley, Milton Ferguson, W. A. Hicks, Fred Johns, E. J. Jensen, H. Krebs, J. C. Hight, M. Brooke, Major Woolridge.

The excursionists returned to Oakland last night, arriving at 7 p. m. at Sixteenth street station.

Fraudulent Oil Stock
Warning Issued

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—Warning to investors against fraudulent oil companies is given today in a statement issued by Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty. Daugherty asserts that the news of the Standard Oil of California's one hundred per cent dividend is being capitalized by questionable oil promoters, who are floating securities of little or no value. He also charges "an attack is now being directed in Los Angeles against the California 'Blue Sky Law' through habeas corpus proceedings by what is said to be a group of so-called oil promoters who have banded together to finance this attack on the corporate securities act."

Daugherty appeals to the press of the state to warn the public against oil frauds.

Veterans' Post to

Honoring the memory of Lieut. Everett E. Leasure of the 33rd Infantry, who was killed in action in the Argonne in 1918, a post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be instituted tonight at Moore Hall, Eleventh and Chestnut streets. The post will be known as "Lieutenant Everett E. Leasure Post 999." The ceremony takes place under direction of State Commander D. J. Scherle.

Lieutenant Leasure was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leasure of 2245 Virginia street, Berkeley. He was a graduate of the First Officers Training Camp at the Presidio.

Is Dead of Fever

MARLIN, Tex., Oct. 7.—I. F. Betts, executive field secretary of Sunday schools, Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home here last night following an attack of dengue fever with complications.

FRANK M. SHAY IS MADE ASSISTANT
PROSECUTOR HERETakes Place of Theodore P.
Witschen, Who Resigned
Post Yesterday.

Frank M. Shay, deputy and chief deputy in the district attorney's office for the past six years, was today installed in the office of assistant district attorney of Alameda county, succeeding Theodore P. Witschen, who resigned yesterday.

Witschen resigned to become chief counsel for Miller & Lux, Inc., with offices in San Francisco. He had been a member of the county's legal staff since March, 1914, when he was appointed a deputy by District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes.

Shay's place as chief deputy, which he had filled for the past year, was taken by Earl Warren, who has served as a deputy under District Attorney Decoto since 1919. Warren formerly was assistant city attorney.

"I do not know a better man to succeed Witschen than Frank Shay," Decoto said today. "He is one of the cleverest trial lawyers in the State of California."

Shay was responsible for the successful prosecution of the "Thirty-Three Gang," one of the worst bands of criminals in the West for a number of years, and for the conviction this year of Virginia Clark, slayer of her husband, Chester Clark. Shay also has been identified with many other local criminal trials that have attracted wide attention.

In accepting Witschen's resignation, Decoto said:

"I have always considered Witschen one of the best civil lawyers in the West. He has demonstrated his ability while connected with this office."

For the greater part of the time since his appointment in the district attorney's office, Witschen has served as legal advisor to the board of supervisors.

Nearly 650,000 passenger automobile license plates have been issued this year in Pennsylvania. In 1921, the licenses issued totaled 635,265 on the last day of the year.

PARKING SPACES
MARKED AT CURB
AS EXPERIMENTEffort to Save Room in Streets For More Cars Begun By Official.

As a result of numerous complaints against the parallel parking law, and especially concerning the waste of space on the average city block, Commissioner W. J. Baccus, head of the street department, today started an experiment on Eleventh street between Franklin and Washington which, if successful, will be adapted to the entire downtown city.

Reasons will mark eighteen-foot spaces on the pavement, near the curb. Each automobile must park within one of these spaces.

"By the present system," says Baccus, "it has been found that the ordinary city block will daily have many vacant spaces, not long enough for a car, but plenty long enough to park several more cars per block if utilized properly."

"Those spaces waste the city's parking facilities."

Now, we judge that the average good-sized car is 15 feet long. Then, the law required that each car must be 3 feet from another. That makes 18 feet. If every car has its back wheels at the boundary of each 18-foot space, there will

Cap and Gown Banished
By Vote of U. C. Women

BERKELEY, Oct. 7.—The code of tradition has gone from the University of California campus. No longer can she be pictured as in days of yore—demure in flowing black robes and stately mortar board.

The women themselves have banished one of the most sacred traditions of university life. No more will the college maid in Berkeley be obliged to wear dignified cap and gown at college assemblies. This will be her garb for one occasion only, her commencement day.

Under the rules which have just been shattered by a vote of senior women, upper class members of the women working their own way through the university can't afford to buy them. They need their money for necessities of life.

This tradition of wearing caps and gowns at university meetings is one which has been rapidly fading into oblivion and the majority of the women have ignored it for some time. However, in taking official action, women of the senior class have gone on record as being opposed to the custom. There will be no more display of the traditional attire of college women except at commencement.

"Seriously, though, the modern college girl is too busy to bother about carrying caps and gowns around with them. Besides, many of the women working their own way through the university can't afford to buy them. They need their money for necessities of life."

After months of discussion the senior women this week voted to abolish the custom. The tradition was not lost without a battle of words, however, many of the or orderly parking and no waste spaces.

"The idea is that of stalls for cars, the stall boundaries being marked with white paint."

"Every car on Eleventh street will be required to park within the limits of a stall. The police will check up. If the experiment is successful, and I believe it will be, it will be adopted for the whole city."

"We cannot continue to waste our parking spaces."

NEW RESIDENCE
ZONE FORMED ON
PIEDMONT LINETemporary Measure Agreed
Upon Until Permanent
Plan Is Worked Out

As a temporary measure, until a great zoning plan can be mapped out for the city as a whole, the city planning commission today decided to create a single family residence zone of the tract just on the Oakland side of the Piedmont line, including Walla Vista avenue, Arimo avenue and part of Lake Shore avenue.

The new zone will add to those already existing, and rounds out the protected tracts along Grand and Oakland avenues.

It was agreed, however, that this is only tentative, pending a survey of the needs of the city as a whole, and the ultimate establishment of a great regulated zone from Oakland avenue to Diamond canyon.
